STEAMERS COLLIDE AND MANY FEARED DROWNED

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Loss of life was feared today in a collision between the American steamer Chichasaw, a United States shipping board freighter, and the Swedish steamer Fern north of the Skaw off Denmark today, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

The Fern, a vessel of 592 tons, is believed to have sunk following the crash. The exact extent of casualties is not known.

The Chichasaw, 4948 tons, is operated by the firm of Moore and McCormack.

DRY DIRECTOR WILL HAVE AMPLE FUNDS; TO ADD NEW AGENTS

Extra Appropriations
For Department Are Expected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—With reasonable limitations Col. Amos W. Woodcock, the new dry director, will have what funds he needs to enforce the prohibition laws even though the treasury in the next twenty-four months is faced by the leanest years since the war.

This opinion was expressed today by officials who said they believed President Hoover and the bureau of the budget would approve additional appropriations for the prohibition service. Woodcock already has indicated he will need about 500 new agents, while Dr. J. M. Moran, director of the bureau of industrial alcohol, wants a hundred or more additional inspectors.

In discussing enforcement conditions in a radio broadcast talk Woodcock declared that "without sensation, without beating of drums, he will exert a steady, unrelenting pressure against the outlaw liquor traffic until it is driven from the land, or our last drop of energy is expended."

The budget bureau is now considering the appropriations which will be contained in the 1932 budget which will be submitted to congress by President Hoover in December. All department heads have been urged to exercise the utmost economy in the preparation of their estimates and every effort is being made to cut appropriations to avoid the necessity of an increase in taxes over the rates of the 1928 revenue act.

If there is to be an increase in the prohibition force before June 30, 1931, the last day of the current fiscal year, a deficiency appropriation bill is necessary at the next congress, since the funds to be provided in the budget now under preparation will not be available until July 1, next.

Woodcock appeared to be convinced that with the present force of about 2,000 agents satisfactory enforcement cannot be accomplished, although about 68,000 persons were arrested with this staff during the year ending June 30. Officials emphasized, however, that Woodcock was not concerned so much with making a large number of arrests as reducing the volume of liquor consumed.

Nor can there be complete success in enforcement unless the bureau co-operate, according to Woodcock. He declared that the federal courts would be opened by state officials to abate nuisances through injunctions.

WEST VIRGINIA IS HOLDING PRIMARY

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—The West Virginia primary election is being held today. Prospects are for an extremely light vote, due to the intense heat.

Accusing Governor William G. Conley of "coercing" voters, Thomas W. Fleming, of Fairmont, member of the Republican state executive committee issued a statement charging that state employers are going through the state with "Jones money," attempting to "influence voters and election officials."

Fleming's statement was in response to the announcement by Governor Conley of his intention to vote for Colonel James Ellwood Jones, coal operator of Switchback, for the G. O. P. nomination for United States senator. The governor expressed the hope that his friends "will do likewise."

Informed of Fleming's statement, Governor Conley denied that he was coercing anyone.

CHARGES OF MURDER AGAINST ADMITTED SLAYERS PLANNED

Evans And Yakus Will
Face Action In Death
Of Girl

MEDINA, O., Aug. 5.—Charges of murder in the first degree probably will be placed against William Evans, 26, and Samuel Yakus, 23, both of Barborton, who are being held in connection with the brutal murder of Miss Agrippina (Dolly) Kozlowski, 19, last Thursday night, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wendell R. Lerch said today.

Both men, according to police, have confessed to being implicated in the murder of the girl whose bullet-torn body was found last Friday in an oat field four miles west of Wadsworth.

Evans has admitted that he was the actual slayer of the girl, police declare. Yakus is said to have admitted that he drove the car which carried Miss Kozlowski and Evans to the field where the girl was shot to death.

Evans was brought here yesterday to await charges to be brought by Assistant Prosecutor Lerch. Yakus and two other suspects in the murder are expected to be brought to Medina today or tomorrow. The two other suspects may face charges in connection with their part in placing Miss Kozlowski in a house at Mansfield, O., police said.

According to the alleged confession of Evans, he shot the girl rather than permit her to return to the house in Mansfield. Evans, who had been keeping company with the girl for about four years said he brought Miss Kozlowski from Mansfield to Barborton last Wednesday.

ALCOHOL FATAL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Acute alcoholic poisoning was blamed today for the death of Philip Shamblin, 39, of Miller, Ohio. He died Monday night while a member of a camping party on the Ohio river at Lesage, W. Va. Coroner J. Carney Hardman said that Shamblin's death occurred after he drank a pint of moonshine.

CLOUDS MAY BRING RELIEF

CANNON DEMOCRATS BARRED IN PRIMARY VOTE IN VIRGINIA

Hoover Policies Are Being
Tested In Four
States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Virginia Democrats who voted for William Mosley Brown for governor last November are ineligible to vote in today's primary, according to a decision of State Attorney General John R. Saunders.

Brown was the candidate of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the M. E. Church South, against Gov. Pollard, the winner.

As a consequence of Saunders' decision, regular Democrats prepared to challenge the Cannon-Brown following at the polls.

The Hoover administration's plan of farm relief and prohibition were put to the test today in four states—Virginia, West Virginia, Kansas and Missouri.

The eyes of political America turned to the West, where Kansas voters will decide important issues after the most turbulent primary campaign in years.

The administration's $500,000,000 farm relief plan as administered by Chairman Alexander H. Legge, and others of the federal farm board has furnished most of the ammunition for Governor Clyde Reed, who is staging a hard fight for renomination against Frank Hauke.

The Kansas Governor has literally assailed the farm board's plea for a reduction in crop acreage. Although Governor Reed has in the past been a firm supporter of the Hoover administration—even appointing a senator on the ground that he would uphold the president—he has gone so far in his attacks on the farm board that he is regarded by many politicians as a rebel in the Republican camp.

Both Kansas senators—Capper and Allen—also are up for renomination. The former has no opposition, and Sen. Allen is fortunate in having three candidates against him. They are Rep. Sproul (R) of Kansas known as one of the driest of the dries, W. G. Snyder, a "farmer's candidate," and James F. Getty. Allen is expected to win.

Sen. Carter Glass (D) of Virginia has no primary opposition, the threat of anti-Smith Democrats to make life miserable for him, having failed.

Virginia, however, is furnishing a prohibition test that is being eagerly watched. It is in Washington's "back door," in the district just across the Potomac where George Washington lived.

Rep. R. Walton Moore having decided to quit congress, there is a general scramble for the Democratic nomination in this, the eighth district. There are five candidates, two dry and three wet. State Senator Frank Ball of Arlington County and Judge Howard W. Smith of Alexandria are the dries, while Thomas R. Keith of Fairfax, Crandal Mackey of Arlington and E. H. DeJarnette of Orange County bear the moist label. Keith, a candidate of acknowledged high caliber, is given an outside chance, with Ball favored to win.

Mrs. Sarah Lee Egan, a Virginia beauty who turned from social life to politics, is fighting ex-Rep. Deal for the Democratic nomination. Deal was unseated in the Hoover landslide, partly because he was a wet. His defeat was acclaimed an Anti-Saloon League victory.

Ex-Senator Neely will be nominated for the senate by the Democrats in West Virginia, while there is a scramble for the Republican nomination.

Five candidates want the Republican nomination for the seat made vacant by retirement of Sen. Guy B. Goff, Republican. One of the five candidates, Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, is running as a wet.

The race for the Republican nomination appears to be between Col. James E. Jones of Switchback, and Harry Shaw of Fairmont.

Missouri voters are engaging in congressional primaries, having no senatorial candidates to name.

ENDURANCE PLANE CONTINUES ALOFT

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, Aug. 5.—The endurance plane "Greater St. Louis" today continued to trail the sky paths in its attempt to run down a new world record endurance record. At 7:11 this morning Forrest O'Brien and Dale "Red" Jackson, pilots of the endurance plane began their sixteenth day and three hundred and sixty-first hour in the air.

The crowd at the field and the plane's ground crew were given a scare late yesterday when the radio sending set in the "Greater St. Louis" broadcast the following message: "Well, folks, I guess it's all over with us. The motor has quit. I guess it's all over with us now."

While the field buzzed with activity and excitement the reassuring voice of Jackson sounded once more, "No, we are all right," it said. "It was just O'Brien cutting the switch."

MOSLEMS AND HINDUS SUBDUED BY TROOPS AFTER BLOODY RIOTS

Clashes Occur In Flood-Stricken Area Of India

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Flood-stricken Sukkur in the upper Sind river regions of India was guarded today by the machine guns of two companies from a Punjab regiment sent there posthaste from Hyderabad after a bloody clash between Moslems and Hindus.

Dispatches from Karachi to the London Evening News reported that several persons were seriously injured during the riot, finally quelled by the combined efforts of troops and police.

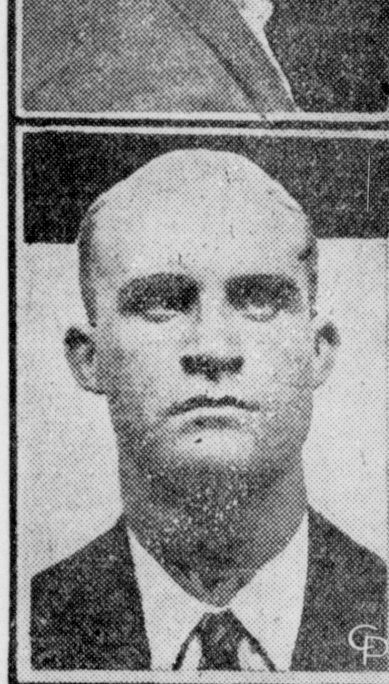

Two volunteer companies took charge of patrolling the streets not under water to prevent further disorders and looting of houses whose occupants have left to avoid the rising floods. All public buildings are fronted by Punjab machine guns.

Other sections of India also reported communal rioting between Hindus and Moslems, with five fatalities at Ballia when 15,000 demonstrators became disorderly.

Total casualties from the communal rioting throughout India estimated at 100.

Meanwhile Abdul Kalam Azad, a Moslem, has been chosen acting president of the All-India congress and active director of the civil disobedience campaign.

THREE ADMIT PARTS IN TWO MURDERS

ACCUSED WOMAN'S HUSBAND TO LEAVE

ASHTABULA, O., Aug. 5.—A. L. Lowther, husband of Mrs. Maude Lowther who is under indictment for the murder of Mrs. Clara Smith, was to leave here today for his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., for a visit prior to his departure for South America where he will be connected with an oil company.

Lowther announced last week that he would not be in the United States when his wife goes to trial early in October. He has signed a three-year contract and will sail early in September, according to his present plans.

Tilby Smith, husband of the murdered woman and alleged paramour of Mrs. Lowther, will be taken to the Ohio Penitentiary this week to await execution October 29 for his part in the slaying of his wife.

RUM RUNNERS SLAY COAST GUARDSMAN

IPSWICH, Mass., Aug. 5.—Victim of alleged rum runners' machine gun fire, while trying to rescue two Winthrop men adrift in a small boat, Louis A. Pratt, 35, of Kittery, Me., coast guard boatswain's mate first class, died today at Cable Hospital.

Pratt, together with Cleo Faulkingham, coast guard surtmann, put base number 21, in answer to a call to search for two men, whose names were not learned, when the machine gun fire began.

The surf boat was riddled with bullets, as the alleged rum runner opened fire when Coast Guardsman Pratt's uniform was seen through the darkness.

OUTBREAK AGAINST SOVIETS REPORTED IN ODESSA; 200 DIE

Red Soldiers Mow Down
Religious Rioters,
Is Said

BUCHAREST, Aug. 5.—The arrival of the Italian steamer Vesta at Constantza today revealed the outbreak of a serious revolt at Odessa on July 25 against Soviet rule.

Officers of the ship declared that 200 rebellious workers were alleged to have been mowed down by machine guns and rifles of the Red troops, who finally quelled the resistance by disposing of persistent rebels with bayonets.

Striking workers stoned the Soviet troops, according to the vivid accounts from the steamer's officers, and staged an all night battle in the face of hopeless odds. Hundreds were wounded and wholesale arrests occurred.

Odessa, with a population of approximately 420,000 persons and fifth in size in the Soviet union, is an important seaport of southern Russia. It is the natural grain outlet of the vast Russian production. It was in this city that Leon Trotsky whose political star crashed under the more powerful influence of Josef Stalin, began his revolutionary activities in his younger days.

BANDITS WOUND TWO IN ROBBING CAFE

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—Ten diners in a Woodard Avenue cafe today had been given a taste of bold banditry which wasn't listed on the menu. Two bandits invaded the restaurant, waded the patrons into a corner, robbed them of more than $150 and then made good an escape after a gunbattle in which two persons were wounded.

A youth was shot in the leg by a wild bullet and another glancing bullet broke the glass in a barber shop window and lacerated the nose of a customer who was being shaved.

XENIA SWELTERS AS HUMIDITY ADDS TO DISTRESS FROM HEAT

Ohio Suffers From Continued Drought And Heat Spell

Overcast skies early Tuesday afternoon held a promise that belated thundershowers, forecast for Monday night, may materialize late in the day and bring at least momentary relief to perspiring Xenians.

The official weather forecast did not justify this hope, however, as the prediction is for partly cloudy Tuesday night and slightly cooler in the extreme east portion of Ohio, with the possibility of local showers Wednesday.

The overcast skies Tuesday served one purpose even though no rain fell during the morning hours. The city was partly screened from the scorching rays of the sun and the mercury was barely able to touch 90 degrees in contrast to the maximum temperature of 100 degrees registered here Monday afternoon.

St. Louis was just about the hottest place in the country Monday, the populace of that city enduring a high mark of 106 degrees. Rain was falling there, however, early Tuesday, bringing a measure of relief. Washington, D. C., the nation's capital, reported a maximum temperature of 102 Monday and Cincinnati as high as 100.

The maximum temperature over Ohio Monday afternoon ranged from 94 to 107 but a slightly cooler area is now overspread this region and the maximum Tuesday was not expected to be quite so high.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 5.—Further relief from the intense heat waves which has caused death, loss of thousands of dollars in fires and water shortage in this section of the state was anxiously awaited by sweltering residents today.

Temperatures continued high in this vicinity last night after reaching a new record of 97 degrees for August 4th yesterday. A slight decline in the mercury, however, was felt today. At eight o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 78 degrees.

One drowning was reported here last night. Thomas Surin, 10, of Cleveland, met his death in Lake Erie while bathing near the shore.

Drought conditions reached a crisis yesterday at Canton, where it was discovered that the 15,000,000-gallon base of the water department was nearly empty. Several wells also were reported dry. An order restraining the use of water for lawns was issued by Mayor Herman R. Witter.

Costly grass and timber fires were reported in various parts of this section of the state. Lack of water made it impossible to halt dozens of the fires.

The highest temperature reported in northern Ohio yesterday was at Youngstown where the mercury soared to 102 degrees.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—After passing through the hottest night this summer, with thermometers registering from 90 to 95 degrees in downtown office buildings, local residents today experienced a continuation of the torrid wave.

The mercury rose to 107 1-2 degrees here Monday, the second hottest day of the year.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR GALION BANK

GALION, O., Aug. 5.—A. E. Evenson today assumed his new duties as receiver for the Citizens' National Bank here. He recently closed up the affairs of the Mt. Sterling, O., bank, of which he had been receiver.

The receivership here is interpreted as indicating that there will be no early reorganization of the local bank.

GERMAN FLYERS COMPELLED TO ABANDON FLIGHT IN ICELAND

REYKJAVIK Iceland, Aug. 5.—Lack of a suitable landing place in Greenland and non-arrival of special gasoline supply for their trip today had cancelled the Berlin-to-Chicago stop over flight of Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German aviators.

Keenly disappointed by failure of their project through unforeseen circumstances, Hirth boxed his plane and sailed for Montreal aboard the liner Minnedosa, intending to fly from Canada to New York. Weller will embark for Germany on the next ship leaving port.

TO CIRCLE GLOBE

Huge Corporation Is Charged With Mis-
management

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The Boston Evening American in an exclusive copyrighted article today said: "Charging gross mismanagement and fraud, a group of New England bond owners have petitioned the Supreme Court of Maine to appoint a receiver for the American Bond and Mortgage Company, with central headquarters in Chicago, the Boston Evening American learned today."

"A bill in equity has been filed in Augusta Chief Justice W. R. Pattangall has issued an order of notice, which is returnable in Supreme Court at Augusta on Tuesday, August 12.

"The action came as a bombshell in financial circles all over the country, because of the prominence and activities of the defendant corporation. The American Bond and Mortgage company in the past twenty years is reputed to have done a business aggregating $150,000,000.

"It has financed the building of hotels, theaters and apartment houses all over the country. It built Alden Park Manor, now known as Longwood Towers, in Brookline and many fashionable apartment houses in greater Boston.

"The complaining bond owners charge that the American Bond and Mortgage Company is on the brink of insolvency. They ask the court to give the receiver or receivers power to take over the affairs of the corporation and to restrain the corporation's officials from transferring the money, assets or books. They claim 41 issues have been defaulted.

SLIGHT TREMBLORS RESULT IN PANIC

ROME, Aug. 5.—Melfi and Rionera were reported normal again today following the panic which gripped the populace of the devastated towns yesterday when slight shocks shook the localities.

Vividly conscious of the horrors that only a few weeks ago ravaged south central Italy when a heavy temblor sent hundreds of buildings crashing into the dust, the nervous residents rushed pell mell into the streets at the first indication of new vibrations, refusing for a long time to return to their homes.

Some remained in the open fields throughout the night.

The greatest damage noted were large cracks in the walls of the city hall.

LIBERTY BONDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Opening price quotations for Liberty Bonds today were: 3 1/2's 101 1/2 and fourth 4's 102 3/4.

AMERICAN WOUNDED IN CLASH; TROOPS MARCH ON CHANGSHA

Communist Machine Guns
Pepper Boats In
Siang River

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Nationalist troops, seeking to end the reign of terror instituted by Communists in Hunan province, entered the sacked city of Changsha today, it was reported in dispatches to the evening newspapers.

Entry of the government troops followed a clash between Communist machine gunners and foreign gunboats in the Siang river, in which one American and three British sailors were wounded.

The targets of the Red gunners were the United States gunboat Palos, the British gunboat Teal and the nearby Italian and Japanese gunboats.

The Palos fired several rounds at the hidden Communists.

Additional reports stated Communist bandits in the upper Min River districts were holding two British women missionaries, the Misses Edith Nettleton and E. J. Harrison for $50,000 ransom.

Dispatches published by the London newspapers declared the bandits took a horrible means of notifying the British authorities of their intention of obtaining the desired ransom. The British received a grisly threat in the form of one of the captives' fingers, accompanied by a threat to remove the remainder unless the sum was speedily forthcoming.

Authoritative advices reaching here confirmed the kidnapping report. If the ransom is not received, the Communists threaten they will kill either of the captured women.

British authorities at Peking delivered urgent representations to the Chinese to bring about the women's release.

Additional advices confirmed reports that the Chinese rebels are active on all sides and that Changsha was fired upon by a British gunboat.

ARTHUR HAND DENIED FREEDOM ON CHARGE

BUCYRUS, O., Aug. 5.—Suspecting that Arthur Hand, of Toledo, aided his brother, Wilbur Hand, now in Ohio Penitentiary to escape from jail at Washington, D. C., last October, county officials here today rejected Arthur's plea that the indictment charging him with complicity in the $175,000 Galion bank robbery be nolleed. Convicted of participating in this robbery, Wilbur is serving a sentence of from twelve to twenty-five years.

Declaring that he desired to marry his blind sweetheart, Miss Theresa Hartman, of Toledo, Arthur unsuccessfully urged Judge J. W. Wright and Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Sears to quash the indictment against him, or fix an early date for his third trial. Juries twice disagreed on a verdict in Arthur's case. He is at liberty under $5,000 bond.

"I can't get married as long as I have this cloud hanging over me," Arthur declared.

MOVE FOR GUARDIAN HEARD ON TUESDAY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Hearing of an application of Miss Florence Madden, nurse for appointment as guardian of Lady May Heath, noted British aviatrix, was scheduled in probate court here today before Judge George S. Addams.

Gerald J. Pilliod, counsel for Lady Heath was expected to challenge Miss Madden's contention.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service recently, Lady Heath declared she would fight the guardianship petition "to the end."

GIVES WOMAN CHECK ON DEFUNCT BANK; WARNING IS ISSUED

If a short, heavy-set, well dressed man of dark complexion calls at your home, represents himself as a telephone man, asks for board and room and offers to pay two weeks in advance by check, notify police headquarters without delay.

He is the man, officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. here say, who fleeced a Xenia woman out of $2.50 this week by means of a worthless check. The name of the woman was not divulged.

The check worker, posing as an employee of the telephone company, told the landlady his name was George Wayne, Washington C. H. He rented a room for two weeks, giving her a check for $20 and receiving $2.50 in change. The check was on the Ohio State Bank at Washington C. H., which recently closed.

Upon learning of the incident of the bogus check the local telephone company began an investigation of its own and learned from Washington C. H. authorities that a man answering the same description, going under the name of Ferguson, had victimized two women in that city last week by the same method.

Telephone company officials suggest that Xenia residents communicate with the company in the future before accepting as roomers any strangers who represent themselves as employees of their concern.

PLANS FOR COMPANY F REUNION MAILED TO LOCAL MEMBERS

Plans were announced Monday for the annual reunion of Company F, 330th Infantry, which will be held this year at the John Bryan State Park, near Yellow Springs. The dates for the reunion are September 6 and 7, and all veterans planning to attend are urged to make their reservations as soon as possible with Dr. William Edmunds, 3337 Euclid Heights Blvd., Cleveland Heights, O., former commander of the company.

Circulars have been mailed to Company F members in Greene County and they contain complete details for the meet. An interesting program has been arranged for the reunion and it is hoped that a large representation will be present. Plans will also be made this year for the reunion to be held in 1931 at which members' families will be invited to attend.

It is urgent that members send in their reservations as soon as possible as the last twenty-five men sending in their replies will be among those selected for K. P. duty, Dr. Edmunds announces.

SHAW SAYS FATHER WAS DRUNKARD; HE REVEALS SKELETON

LONDON, Aug. 4.—George Bernard Shaw, to whom bitter controversies and literary sensations are as important as his vegetarian diet, has started London again with an amazing frank expose of his early life and family, in which he branded his father as a drunkard and attempted to explain why he has always been "a sojourner on this planet instead of a native of it."

The autobiographical references, almost without a parallel in literary history, were contained in a preface to a private edition of his works, which is now being published here in thirty volumes.

"If you cannot get rid of a family skeleton," wrote Shaw, "You can still make it dance."

"You will ask why I was not respectably brought up. Unfortunately or fortunately (it all depends how you look at it), my father had a habit which eventually closed all doors to him, and, consequently, to my mother, who could not very well be invited without him."

"If you asked him to dinner or to a party, he was not always quite sober when he arrived, and he was invariably scandalously drunk when he left. Now a convivial drunkard may be found exulting in convivial company. Even a quarrelsome or boastful drunkard may be found entertaining by people who are not particular. But a miserable drunkard—and my father, in theory a teetotaler, was racked with shame and remorse even in his cups—is unbearable."

Shaw then went on to say that his family finally were dropped socially and "after my early childhood I cannot ever remember paying a visit to a relative's house."

The writer explains his "crude-

Nervous, Weak, No Appetite

"I am a factory worker. I got so nervous I could not sleep at night. I felt weak and had no appetite. My mother recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took two bottles. It helped me very much and I recommend it highly. I feel so much stronger, have a better appetite and work in the factory every day."

"My father reduced his teetotalism from theory to practice when a mild fit which felled him on our door step one Sunday afternoon convinced him that he must finish drinking or perish."

"His reform came too late to save the social situation."

And I was cut off from the social drill which puts one at one's ease in private society and utterly ignorant of social routine."

"If I had been merely shy provincially, with incorrect table manners and wrong clothes," he continues; "If I had eaten peas with a knife and worn a red tie with an evening suit, people would have taken me in hand and drilled me, but my difficulties were not of that easy, remediable kind."

"All my life I have been a sojourner on this planet rather than a native of it."

Immediately following the publication, tongues buzzed in literary circles concerning just what revelations even so distinguished an artist as George Bernard Shaw should be privileged to make.

Kender was fined $50 and costs on the seining charge and $100 and costs for resisting arrest and abusing an officer in execution of his duties.

The Daytonian is alleged to have assaulted Joseph Steele, Osborn, fish and game protector, when the officer surprised Kender and two companions using a net to catch fish in the shallow waters of the river.

ALWAYS DEPENDABLE

"The Home Of Thrift"

All loans of this Association are made on real estate mortgages—next after Government Bonds, the most dependable of all forms of security. Fluctuations of values of real estate in this locality are never sufficient to substantially impair the value of this form of security.

This is a prosperous and substantial community. The general trend of real estate values is upward and the occasional temporary arrests to this advance are not now, and never have been, a menace to the sufficiency of this kind of security.

Building Associations loans are made with a reasonable margin of security, and only a minor fraction of their whole number are ever concerned with a diminution of this kind of property. Back of this security, in this Association, is a Safety Fund which, in an experience of 55 years, has proven ample for any needs. Let us send you a Booklet of Information.

More than 200 Clinton County farmers, driven to desperation by failure of their crops because of the prolonged drought, appealed to commissioners of the county Monday for employment to enable them to purchase food for their families.

The board listened for some time to their arguments and then promptly decided that $100,000 worth of road construction work, contemplated for later in the year, will be started immediately and the jobless farmers put to work, earning money.

Most of the men composing the delegation which visited the courthouse were tenant farmers and farm laborers who depend to a great extent upon truck gardens which have been completely burned up by the long period of dry weather.

Many of the farmers pointed out their truck gardens had not yielded any food whatsoever this season. Many instances of large families of children who had been existing for weeks on meager food were brought to the attention of commissioners.

Lacking pasture, cows had ceased to furnish milk for the families also. Conditions in Clinton County are said to be the worst in the entire state in view of the fact there has been only scant rainfall since early spring. The corn crop was virtually a failure throughout the county.

Farmers nearing destitute circumstances will be put to work at once hauling gravel and limestone to the roads where it will be dumped until the road beds can be placed in a condition to receive it. The decision of the commissioners to furnish the farmers with employment was greeted with a tremendous ovation and every member of the delegation was promised work before the end of this week.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD IS JUDGE—Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.—Matthew 7:1,2.

FIGHTING BILLBOARDS

In England the name "hoardings" is applied to what we call "billboards" over here. While our term may be descriptively more accurate there is in "hoardings" a subtle implication that far too much of the natural beauty of the countryside is hoarded or stored behind unsightly advertisements which spread thousands of board footage abroad in the land.

Judging from reports of the billboard and roadside committee of the Garden Club of America, presented at the recent national meeting in Seattle, members of this organization working with similar national groups are seeking to remedy the hoarding evil by promotion of legislation which will prohibit or curtail roadside advertising. In New Jersey billboards are now taxed and regulated by law. Elsewhere garden clubs are warring against the billboard interests to sustain state constitutional amendments making such procedure possible. In the south many commercial establishments have agreed to give up billboard advertising. Where billboards have already been removed, trees are now being planted. In fact the garden club workers encourage roadside planting and state co-operation to this end. They are also seeking to persuade owners to put up attractive filling stations and food stands.

Summer is the principal season when public highways are crowded with tourists. States and cities through which they pass will be judged by the attractiveness of the vistas presented from car windows. There is, accordingly, good business sense involved in a community decision to put its best foot forward. For the region which makes lavish display of its charms of hillside, valley and stream will be more widely and more advantageously advertised than the district which seeks to lure dollars by making its avenues of approach mere lanes between the billboard advertisements of individual merchants or nationally-known products.

For years the travel bureaus have urged us to "See America First." But in spots it has been impossible to see America at all, for the miles of painted proclamations and admonitions which obscure the landscape.

BUYING POWER

Many cities and towns have shown a phenomenal growth under the new census, because of resources that have been developed. They were advantageously located for commercial centers, they had a specially favorable climate, or there were other advantages that could be utilized.

Meanwhile every community has a certain resource in itself, the power of which for development is not always realized. That resource is the buying power of its people. If they buy their merchandise to any considerable extent through concerns located elsewhere, their buying power is a wasted resource so far as their home town is concerned. A state will not develop unless it conserves its natural resources of soil, forests, mines, etc., and a town will not develop unless it conserves its resources of buying power by spending its money at home.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

RESPECT FOR "THE FOLKS"

Youngsters today, like youngsters 40 years ago, do not always have a lot of faith in opinions and ideas of their parents. They think "the ole man" is out of date. We can hardly blame young people for thinking that. Too often the old folks are out of date. They have not kept up with the changing times sufficiently to know what their children are thinking about. And it's more important to know what the children are thinking about than to know what they are doing. But the fact remains that the world is short on kindness and short on respect for dad and mother. No matter if the boy and girl do think "the folks" are back numbers the finest thing they can do is to show respect. Barbarians, savages, are different from civilized people in their different attitude toward their parents. Without respect for elders there never has been, and never will be, a real civilization.

MACHINES AND CULTURE

Dr. Hall-Quest, New York educator, is right when he tells teachers real culture can flourish in the machine age—and in the country most advanced in the application of machinery. Machinery is not a curse. It provides more leisure for more people—more leisure in which they can think about art, literature, the value of culture. It isn't the machine age that is ever going to be the matter with America. The trouble is going to lie in our disposition to make a wasteful, unimportant, unworthy use of the leisure which the machine age provides.

THANK YOU

The other day some paragraphs which appeared in "The Way of the World" three years ago were reprinted by mistake. The writer received the complimentary shock of his life when somebody actually remembered the old stuff and called his attention to the re-print.

FOR WHAT?

In a church conference recently a speaker made an address on the subject, "For What Are We Educating?" Well, who said we were educating?

FROM HOME

Sometimes we are shocked when we learn that a young man who is in trouble "came from a good home." Perhaps if it had been a good home the young man wouldn't have come from it so soon.

MISERY

Dreiser, able American novelist, says the only thing that will stir the American people to improvement is misery. He says they are not yet miserable enough. Maybe so. Can Mr. Dreiser be sure there isn't misery enough? The trouble is that it is concentrated in too few places. Some have too much. Some little or none.

GREATNESS

We are so used to measuring everything, from America down to the last best selling novel, in terms of "greatness." What is greatness? Greatness may rest in a slender setting. It may rest in a word spoken at the right moment. Greatness may rest in a thought—and in the earnest, even if falling, effort to turn that thought into reality.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Why did Kamehameha drive his army over the cliff of Pal, near Honolulu?

Kamehameha did not drive his own army over the cliff. When he set out to conquer the Island of Oahu, his army defeated that of Kalanikupule, and the defeated army was driven over the precipice of Pal and died on the rocks below. This overwhelming victory established Kamehameha's power, over the Hawaiian Islands, in 1791.

Exports

What were the exports of the United States and Germany in 1929?

The United States sent $5,157,583,027 of goods to foreign ports, while Germany exported goods valued at $3,482,200,000 marks (about $2,300,000,000).

African Pygmies

Is it true that there are pygmies in Africa? Yes. Several tribes of negroes of exceptionally small stature have been found. Among them is one tribe that eats clay.

The Indians' Origin

Is the place of origin of the Indians definitely known?

There are two theories now as to the origin of the North American Indians. The first is that they came across Bering strait from north Asia, and moved south. The second is that they came from the South seas to South America and spread north.

Fire Damp

What is "fire damp"? Fire damp is the most commonly known coal mine gas. It is an explosive mixture of methane and air. Methane is composed of one volume of carbon united with four volumes of hydrogen. It is odorless, colorless, tasteless and non-explosive in its pure state, but when supplied with air it burns with a blue flame and is explosive.

Panama Canal

Are the lock chambers of the Panama Canal large enough to allow any vessel to pass through them?

The lock chambers have a clear width of 110 feet, and a length of 1,000 feet, giving ample clearance space for any vessel now afloat. The North German Lloyd ship Bremen is the longest ship at present, being 938 feet from bow to stern, with the Leviathan, with a width of 100 feet 3 inches, is the widest.

"SILK HAT GUS"

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—Individuality has a way of creeping out no matter how deep down in the pile Fate may consign its possessor.

There are thousands of boot-blacks in New York. An average man, entering the ranks of the Pedal Polishers, is content to slide down into the warm, safe depths of mediocrity and there linger to the end of his days.

Some men, however, just can't stay put. There's Silk Hat Gus, for example.

Gus has a three-chair booth at Canal and Lafayette Streets. In a meagre, adjoining annex he maintains equipment for repairing "Ladies and Gents Hats." One time a bibulous barnstormer stopped by with a silk hat that he wanted reconditioned. Gus did his best; but charity demands the briefest sort of discourse on the job.

Gus awaited the return of the barnstormer with trepidation, but he never came back. For months the silk hat reposed on the shelf, and one day Gus took it down, tried it on and found it fit him perfectly.

A customer stopped by to have his calf skins rejuvenated. Gus, with a cigar at an angle of forty-five degrees protruding from a corner of his mouth, and the silk hat on the back of his head, went to work with his usual assiduity.

The customer fared forth from the little bootblack stall and told the story. In a week Gus's trade had doubled. There was something fantastic in the idea of having one's shoes shined by a swarthy gent wearing a silk hat and puffing a Chloride de Lime.

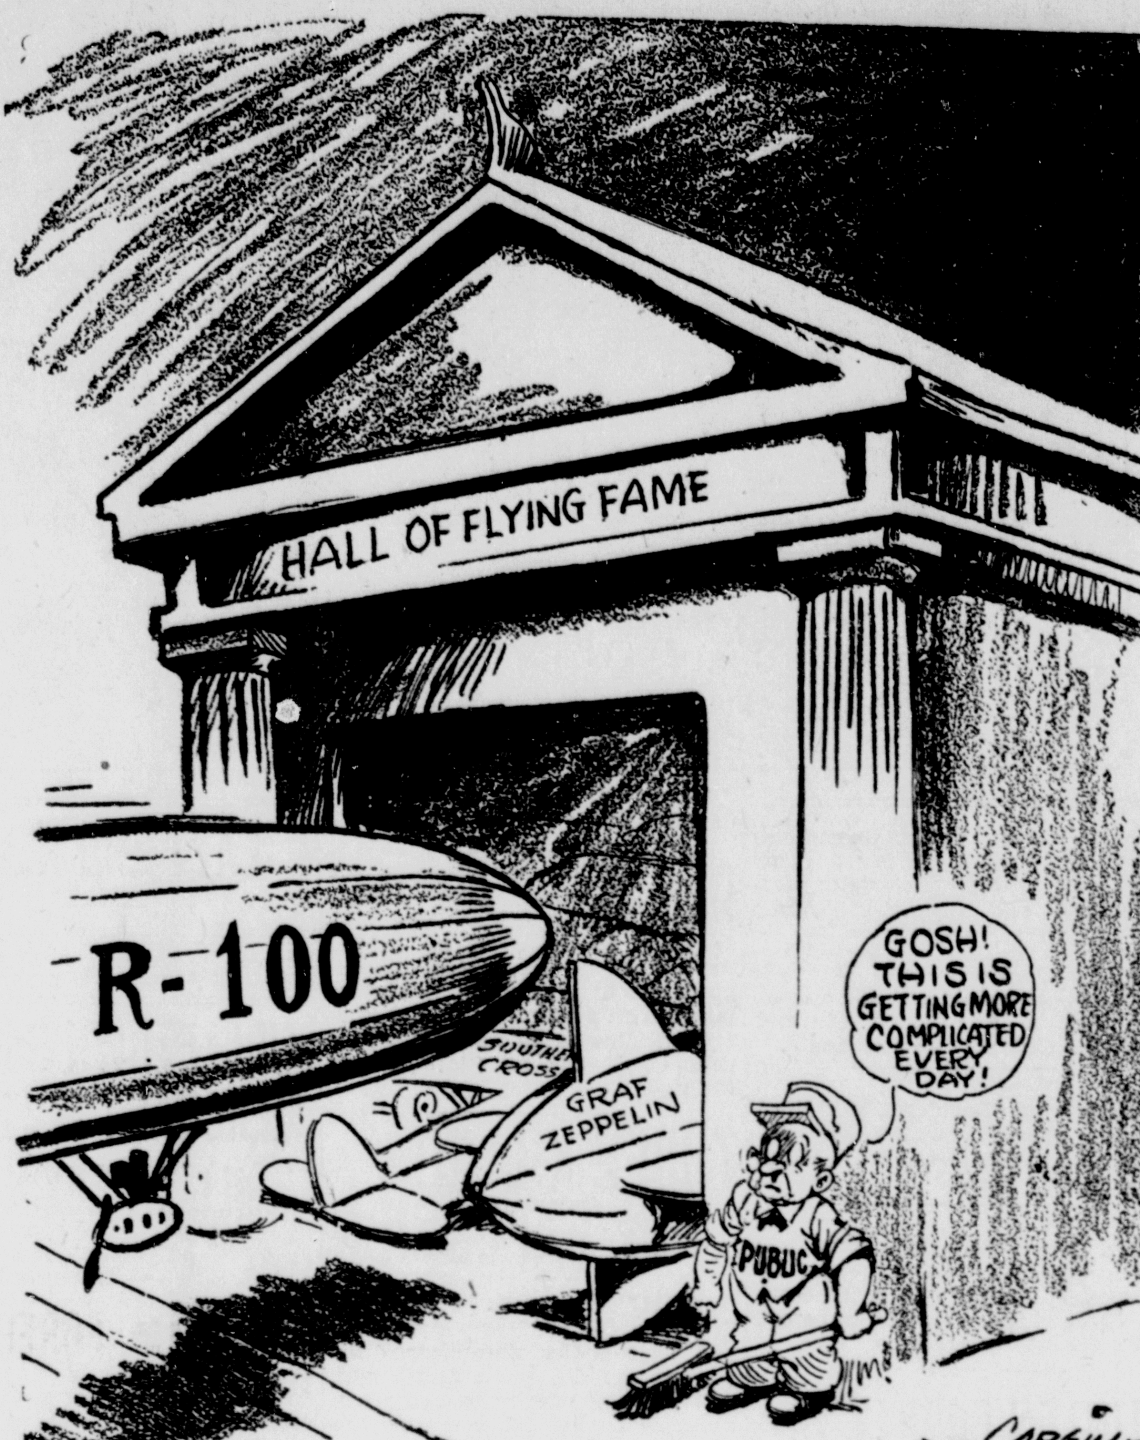

Today lecturers on the bus piazzas of sight-seeing buses point out "Silk Hat Gus" to the customers as one of the sights of the city.

Success in any line of endeavor is a mixture of energy, discernment and luck. Put yourself in the way of things happening—and they happen.

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE!

WET ISSUE IN IOWA MAY GIVE FALL ELECTION MORE THRILLS THAN TAME FIGHTS OF PAST

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Iowa elections generally are tame affairs. G. O. P. nomination fights frequently are hot, but the state is too one-sidedly Republican for thrilling inter-party politics often than once in a coon's age.

This may prove to be one of the times, however. Senator Daniel F. Steack, trying for another term as a Democrat, has introduced an unexpected issue into the campaign—that is to say, unexpected in Iowa, though very much an issue in various other states.

Steack has come out more or less as a wet. The law Democrats, in convention assembled, recently adopted a platform plank calling for a new definition of intoxicants and a referendum on the eighteenth amendment—an action supplemented by Steack in a speech referring to prohibition enforcement as "a national disgrace."

It sounded like at least a light-wine-and-beer declaration—maybe even stronger than that. I'm quite aware that plenty of people will say that this cocky Steack's goose—if anyone possibly could have considered that it was not cooed already.

They will add that it introduces no element of excitement whatever into the Iowa situation. That Iowa is one of the driest states in the union. That L. J. Dickinson, the Republican nominee for the senate, was due to win in a walk anyway, and now, if it's imaginable, that he'll win by a larger majority than he would otherwise.

I'm not disposed to deny it. Far be it from me to foresee a Democratic landslide in a state which only two Democrats have carried (one of them carried it twice) since the Republican party was founded.

I also rather think Iowa is a very dry state—though I know of some mighty wet spots in it. Steack's hope is extremely forlorn, undoubtedly. But—here's what puts the kick into it.

It is the same forlorn hope of the other Democrat, who carried the state, availed himself—and it rained him with two terms as governor.

While Dan Steack has not ignited the Potomac as a senator, he must be an exceptionally capable campaigner, for he set Sam W. Brookhart so hot a pace in 1924 that the latter was pronounced a winner by the narrowest kind of margin.

Indeed it was so narrow that Steack contested it, and after a long fight, the senate re-counted Brookhart out and gave his seat to Dan!—Brookhart not getting in again until two years later.

However, it was not the sort of victory to offer Steack much promise of a re-election, especially against his this year's opponent, Brookhart, as an ultra-radical, had a deal of opposition in the G. O. P.'s own ranks in 1924, whereas Dickinson will have his party solidly behind him next November.

In short, Republicans and Democrats alike have regarded Dan's defeat as a foregone conclusion in the fall election.

Thus he unquestionably was justified in feeling that he had everything (if anything) to gain and nothing possibly to lose by coming out, as he has done, for prohibition modification.

To be sure, he denounces the Hawley-Smoot tariff, too. Republican farm relief and pretty much everything else the G. O. P. has done and left undone in the last decade, but the campaign obviously will be fought (if it amounts to a fight) on the prohibition issue.

Now we must glance back a little into ancient Iowa history. The Hawkeye legislature enacted prohibition in 1855 and in 1923 the state supreme court pronounced it unconstitutional the first time and voided the second law.

In 1884 the legislature tried again and made it stick. Yet several cities opposed it. Two of them, I recall, were spoken of as the "states of Dubuque and Davenport" from the openness of the disregard of it. Sioux City, where I was brought up, established a regular municipal licensing system—far more effective than the one under recent federal attack in parts of Idaho.

In 1889 Horace Boles (a Good Templar, by the way) ran for governor on a wet Democratic ticket; won; was re-elected in 1891, but in 1893 was beaten, the Iowa G. O. P. meantime having agreed to dry law modification.

The following year, accordingly,

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

NAP TIME FOR HER MAJESTY

Mother Ant drowled the last words. It was plain that she was sleepy. But before Peter could remark "I hope we're not keeping you awake, Your Majesty," Worker Ant piped up.

"Say, Queen Ant, I'm ashamed of myself for being so inconsiderate. Boy, here, is a guest in Insectland and regulations, but I should have known better than to keep you talking after the hard morning's work you have done. Don't pay any more attention to us. Curl down and take a snooze and Boy and I will steal away and leave you. We have much to see and much to do, and already the sun is well up. Even if you weren't sleepy we should have to be going on!"

"Very well, then, if you will excuse me I will take my nap!" replied Queen Ant, drowsily. "Digging dirt is no easy task, let me tell you. And to tell you the truth, this is the first real day's work I have ever done in all my life. I haven't gotten used to labor. Glad to have met you, Boy. I hope you have a happy time in Anthill Town."

Drowsily murmuring, Queen Ant brushed her silky coat clear of all dirt and dust until it shone in the sunlight. Like the teeth of a fine comb, her tiny teeth slipped through the bristly hairs of her coat. And when she moved, Peter saw two ugly looking jaws on the outside of her head—their toothed edges resting on each other. Worker Ant noticed the boy's surprised look and whispered:

"Those are Queen Ant's mandibles and you want to be mighty careful not to make Her Majesty angry or she is liable to rush at you and give you a jab you'll not like."

See Clinic, Specialist For Goiter

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

MRS. C.: I judge from your description that your goiter is not a simple one (one without symptoms, with the exception of the enlargement of the thyroid gland), but it is an exophthalmic type, for these are accompanied by extreme nervousness and thinness, palpitation of the heart, as well as other symptoms similar to those you complain of. The protuberance of the eyeballs—as indicated by the name, exophthalmos—is usually a late symptom.

This exophthalmic type causes such a speeding up of the burning of food in the body that it is very difficult to gain weight. It is for this reason that the diet has to be increased markedly.

The exact cause of the exophthalmic goiter is not known, except that it is some toxic condition which has profoundly upset the gland. They have been known to arise from extreme nervous shock (perhaps because these have caused a pouring out of the secretions of all of the ductless glands, so much so that poisonous effects are felt); even prolonged mental strain, in susceptible persons; hereditarily, (the tendency to unstable nervous systems). Reducing tablets containing thyroid and iodine, certain infectious diseases, prolonged absorption from local infections, such as carious teeth, running ears, diseased tonsils, etc., prolonged unbalanced diet, are other causes listed.

The diet may have to be increased to 5000 or 6000 C. a day, because of the great need for food. Have you counted your calories?

I notice you live in a small town. I think it is very necessary for you to go to your nearest big city where you may find a doctor who specializes in this disease; or go to some clinic there. As you observed the column rules, the article on Thyroid Disturbances was sent you; this explains a little more in detail.

Mrs. H.: You should go to a very competent blood specialist for advice about the blood wart you have between your eyes. He will probably use radium or X-ray or advise an operation for you.

Mrs. S.: You are only 24, so any loose skin that forms as a result of reducing will tighten up again. Don't lose too rapidly. Keep up your exercises. Use a lot of cold water and ice on your face. Stop worrying.

Probably you will find, after you get that 125 pounds or so excess off of you, that you're not sterile at all. For it is well known that excess weight, with the unbalanced diet that brings it on, can cause sterility.

Have you our Petersizing pamphlet? If not, send for it and ask also for our article on the Tummy Ten exercises. (See column rules.)

Mrs. M.: We have a pamphlet on Kidney and Bladder Disorders and an article on Stones which gives you the information you ask for. We have also an article on Blood Pressure—which answers your other question. See column rules.

Editor's Note: Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a "fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet, 10 cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, The Urinary System Address Dr. Peters Bureau, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Demand Your Partnership Rights

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The question of finances as between man and wife is still pretty much muddled. Wives are still often kept in ignorance of the state of the family finances, and husbands who marry a woman with means often borrow from said wives without thinking it needful to keep track of what they take and pay it back or make provision for it in other ways.

Marriage should be a partnership. That sounds trite, because it has been said so often. But it is true, nevertheless. Some wives, it is true, squander the family substance and make very undesirable partners, so do some male business partners. Others would make admirable partners with business sense as good as any man's, but their husbands still have the old superstitious complex and keep them in ignorance of financial affairs, unless something goes very wrong, when they will enough about it.

K. B.: Tell your friend to consult a lawyer. Laws differ in different states. She, of course, would have a dower right in his estate, and if she has notes for the money she lent him it probably would have to be paid out of the estate at the time of his death.

In the event of a divorce, of course she could demand an accounting and restitution of her property. She should, of course, have safeguarded her money and home when she permitted her husband to borrow from her. Sorry I can't be of more assistance. Women are so easy when it comes to giving up everything they possess to those they love.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 20 and was married three years. My husband was so cruel to me that I could not live with him. I have been divorced three months. I have a baby boy two and a half years old and I live at home with my father and mother.

"After being married, keeping house and with the baby, I am not satisfied. Home does not seem like home any more.

"I am going with a man eight years my senior. He says he loves me very much and he seems to think a lot of my baby. Do you think it would be unwise to get married so soon after a divorce?"

"I have friends who advise me to run around to dances, parties, etc., and have a good time. Do you think, being a mother, that would be proper?"

I don't think it would be wise to marry a man you don't love merely to have a home where you can keep the baby, although I can imagine you would feel much happier in a home of your own after once having had it. Having made one unhappy marriage, be very sure that you will be happy in a second before you go into it. It would be very bad for the baby, as well as yourself, to keep changing homes.

There is no reason why you shouldn't go to dances and have a good time if the baby is well looked after while you go out. Get as much fun as you can, in a nice way, of course, and then when you do marry again, you will probably be more contented.

Just A Reader says "George, Jr. hasn't found the right girl yet and that there are still 'a few old-fashioned girls left'."

Wear Dainty Hues For Summer

By GLADYS GLAD

Those of my readers who intend to adopt for wear the dead-black gowns designed by the Parisian stylists may find a little advice upon the subject to be of benefit. For black frocks can make you appear very shabby dressed, or—on the other hand—very smartly gowned.

A great deal depends upon the kind of material you choose. A black crepe de chine, for instance, when fresh and beautifully pressed, can be smart. The moment that it has lost its freshness, it becomes shabby. A old crepe de chine dress should be consigned to the rag bag.

Black satin can be extremely smart. If it is cheap satin, even its newness will not excuse it, will not cover its cheapness, and will make you appear shabby. The lines of the black satin must be perfect, its pressing beautiful. Black satin and black crepe de chine turns a rusty color from the slightest bit of perspiration. When this occurs, their beauty is gone.

The one best bet for the woman or girl who hopes to follow the prevailing craze for black gowns—with no color relief—is black georgette or chiffon. These materials are always dainty and extravagant-looking. Moreover, you can use a cheaper grade of these materials and still appear expensively and smartly gowned.

However, your black accessories must also be smart. The hat must be immaculate, the bag of excellent grade, and, if a black fur scarf is worn, it must not be a cheap one. So, for beauty's sake, if you intend to wear black, be prepared to pay in the long run, more than you would for gowns and accessories of other colors.

For the majority of us, the most advisable plan is to stick to the dainty, usual summer colors, and to allow those who can afford to wear black be the ones to do so. I hope that the blondes who can afford the black costumes will realize, however, the wonderful opportunity that this current fad offers them to appear at their loveliest.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Blackheads
Etta and Jeannette: Do not squeeze blackheads, as you will bruise the skin and misshape the pores. The egg pack will help to remove blackheads. Try applying the cream or liquid—satin to your legs. A bit of perfume sprayed lightly on the hair is not in poor taste.

Reducing
Tess, Peg, Jackie, Brown-Eyes and D. F. I.: Of course you can reduce your hips and bust! My course of reducing will prove it to you! It is fully outlined in my booklet on "The New Figure."

Dart Arm-Pits
Win, N. C., M. T. and N. L.: The skin under the arms is too sensitive for the application of bleaches. Wear frocks that do not reveal the armpits.

Veins
Blue-Eyes: The red veins on and around your nose can be removed by plastic surgery. They can be made less prominent if highly-seasoned foods and alcoholic drinks are eliminated from the daily diet.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

by Phil

Attention of Southwestern Ohio Short-hair Circuit fans will be focused on the meeting at the Greene County Fair this week. There will be three days of the harness sport, starting Wednesday and continuing through Friday with four races each day. All the classes and stake events are well filled and the nominations total 222 for the twelve events. Because of the crowded program the races will probably be called at 1 p. m. and start each day at 1:30 o'clock. The program on opening day Wednesday begins with the 2:18 Pace stake for a $600 purse for which twenty-two pacers have been nominated. Next on the card is the 2:22 trot worth $300 with twenty-nine entries, followed by a three-year-old pacing stake valued at $500 with a cup donated by the C. A. Weaver Co. This event has twenty-two entries. The final race will be a two-year-old trot, two in three heats, worth $150 with a cup donated by L. A. Wagner, Jeweler. Thirteen entries were received for this event for colts.

L. G. Reitz, Dayton, will act as starting judge for the races this year, succeeding A. E. Staup, Tippecanoe City, who has sent them away for the last three years here.

Those terrible St. Louis Cardinals certainly find the Reds soft pickings this season. Cincinnati, in turn, finds it just as easy to beat the Chicago Cubs and the Cubs experience little difficulty looking St. Louis. Baseball is a funny thing.

The big disappointment of the season to Dan Howley has been the failure of lanky Bob Meusel to hit as well as Dan expected him to. Meusel has an unhappy faculty of striking out or hitting into double plays in the pinches and the Red fans constantly show their dislike of him by giving him the "red" when he is in the line-up.

Harry Hellmann is just as popular as ever but the idol of Redland Field is none other than Curtis Walker, who plays consistent good ball day in and day out. Curt always gives the ball a ride and he made several startling catches in the double-header Sunday.

Harlan "Blind" Wyssong, a product of near Wilmington, is the latest addition to the Red pitching staff. "Lefty" has been the mainstay of the Columbus Senators all season and he was obtained by Cincinnati in exchange for Archie Campbell, who was the American Association's leading pitcher in 1929 while with St. Paul. Wyssong once at the head of Wilmington College. He will probably make his debut in the series with the Phillies.

Coaches and athletic officials at Ohio University have voiced their approval of the addition of DePaul and Wabash to the Buckeye Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. The two Indiana schools were recently admitted to the conference under a two-year scheduling agreement, subject to permanent entrance.

A fine spirit of rivalry and keenest kind of competition should develop among all Buckeye schools and DePaul and Wabash," says Football Coach Don C. Peden. "Two years may not prove sufficient time to test the advisability of permanent alliance with the two Indiana schools, but I do believe that in five years all associated schools will profit by having both new members permanently affiliated," Peden said.

"Pinky" Wilson, Central High coach, is spending most of the summer vacationing at his home in New Concord, painting houses and things but is looking forward to a big time when he enrolls in the coaching school at Evanston, Ill., the latter part of this month. Some time ago they gave the town hall in New Concord a new coat of paint. The apparatus regulating the overhead traffic light above the main highway running through the town is located in the town hall and after the painting job was finished the city fathers discovered they couldn't get to the switch to turn off the signal light. So it blinked on and off all one night. As far as we know "Pinky" didn't have this painting job.

LANGS BEAT DAYTON YELLOW CABS 22-2

With Pitcher John Hurley striking out twelve batters and allowing only three or four hits, the Lang Chevrolet Co. softball team romped to an easy 22 to 2 victory over the Yellow Cabs of Dayton in an inter-city contest played at Patterson Park in Dayton Monday night. Several Lang players and a number of rooters experienced difficulty finding the diamond where the game was to be played and a few returned to Xenia without witnessing the contest.

The Lang line has booked an attractive exhibition game for Thursday night at Cox Field, meeting St. Paul's Lutheran Church team of Springfield. The Lutheran nine recently lost to Robb's and Myers of Springfield by a 3 to 1 margin and in a return game held the same team to a 1 to 1 tie score.

Spying On Sports

by BILL RITT

Central Press Sports Editor
The first effort to cut down the payroll check of those athletes who toil on sun-baked baseball diamonds throughout the hot spell has been made—and defeated.

The Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League, it is reported, offered a plan to the other club owners of the loop whereby the present maximum salary figure of $6,000 a season would be cut to approximately $4,500.

The reason for the stars' move is obvious. The club must depend for its trade on the greater Los Angeles territory which contains another club and one of longer standing, the Angels. The Angels, being the property of William Wrigley, who owns Chicago Cubs, is able to get and keep in

XENIANS TO APPEAR ON RADIO PROGRAM

Miss Eleanor McDonnell, vocalist and Miss Jaunita Rankin, pianist, will broadcast from Station WAIU, Columbus, Thursday evening from 7:30 to 7:45 o'clock, it is announced.

The program is arranged in the interests of the Atwater Kent Radio, Miss McDonnell having won the annual Atwater Kent radio audition for southern Ohio last year.

Miss Rankin will be her accompanist in three numbers and will probably also present a piano solo, but a program for the broadcast has not been arranged.

WILL PAY-OFF TIE

Three miniature golfers who tied for low score and a $5 prize at the formal opening of the Bobby Lou midweek links last Sunday will contest for the prize in a play-off arranged for 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night over the eighteen-hole course. Robert Downing, Albert LaMar and Clarence Brennan each turned in cards of 44. The prize will be awarded the winner of the elimination contest and the public is invited to watch the affair.

TEAM FORFEITS

Unable to muster together a team, Company 1's softball nine forfeited a scheduled American League game to Kiwanis-Rotary at Cox Athletic Field Monday night. The local guard unit's team has not won a game all season and there is a probability it may retire from league competition of its own accord before the regular playing season is over.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The promise of an improvement in important divisions of American industry and trade within a reasonable period was accepted today by a small number of investors as the basis of investment buying of selected industrial stocks. Prices in all sections of the market were firm, with a few of the favorites reaching new peaks since June. The noon volume was only 636,000 shares, but this was nearly twice as large as in the same period yesterday.

The call loan rate was moved up to 2 1/2 per cent in consequence of the withdrawal of funds for the use of the interior banks.

United States Steel sold fractionally above 170 for the first time since mid-June.

Standard Oil of N. J. was another good performer for the bulls, reaching a new peak of 74 1/4, on the projected expansion of the business of the company, to include the sale of automobile tires.

Near the Ouachita River in Southern Arkansas there is a little town called Smackover—a name now world famous because of the Crude Oils this field produces. These Crudes contain a high natural content of the so called aromatics naphthenes and unsaturates petroleum compounds which produces the desired anti-knock quality. This unusual gasoline COMBINES IN ONE MOTOR FUEL every desirable quality required by high compression motors and in addition contains the same quick starting and smooth operating characteristics that have popularized High Test Gasoline. The great power found in Smackover accounts not only for its remarkable anti-knock performance but likewise is responsible for considerably higher mileage yields per gallon.

This wonderful gasoline will be sold in Xenia for the first time Wednesday morning at all the stations of the Carroll-Binder Co. at the Regular Price the time. My condition became so bad that I did not work for two months. I was badly discouraged. I began to feel better right from the beginning of the Konjola treatment. Nervousness gradually disappeared and no one knows what a relief it was to get a good nights rest. I have taken six bottles to date and, believe me, I feel fine. I owe all this health and strength to the healing powers of Konjola."

Konjola can do as much for anyone when it is given a real test. It is recommended that this master medicine be taken over a period of from six to eight weeks.

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. ## Iso-Thermic Tubes

... the automatic self-starting device for fast freezing of ice and desserts ...

Here is a feature that will appeal to every user of electric refrigeration—a special Kelvinator compartment that gives extra-fast freezing, automatically. Note the spiral coil of Iso-Thermic Tubes, indicated by arrows. This is, in effect, a Cold Plate, in which intense cold is concentrated. Ice cubes and desserts are frozen in half the usual time. Yet food compartments are not affected.

FOR 16 years, Kelvinator engineers have striven to make electric refrigeration more trouble-free, more automatic, more complete in the service it renders to users.

Iso-Thermic Tubes, for example, are found only in the new Kelvinators. Built around a special freezing tray, this new device automatically starts freezing operations when a tray of water or dessert is placed within. Ice cubes and frozen desserts are prepared in record time. There is nothing to watch or regulate. A separate temperature—scientifically correct for proper preservation of foods—is automatically maintained in the food compartments. Thus, food cannot be spoiled through freezing or too high a temperature.

See the new Kelvinator today and learn how easily you may enjoy this modern refrigeration service now through Kelvinator's ReDisCo monthly budget plan.

McCormick-Deering One-Row Tank Corn Picker

HAVE you seen the McCormick-Deering Power Corn Picker with the 25-bushel tank? We would like to have you come in and look it over. It does the back-breaking, knuckle-bruising job of picking corn at a rate of 10 to 12 acres a day—very much faster than by hand—and exceptionally clean.

One man on the tractor seat handles both the tractor and the picker. It is operated through the power take-off of the McCormick-Deering Farmall, 10-20, or 15-30 Tractor.

The gatherers raise the stalks and leaning stalks, chains carry the stalks back and force them against snapping rolls, the ears are quickly snapped, elevated to the husking rolls, and then elevated to the tank.

Trash is eliminated by a process found only on McCormick-Deering Pickers. Flexible paddles attached to a revolving beater located above the upper end of the snapping rolls force the trash down through the snapping rolls and discharge it on the ground.

The tank itself is a great convenience. Its capacity is usually sufficient for a trip down the field and back, and the necessity for hitching and unhitching wagons is eliminated. Steel and iron construction and evenly-distributed weight provide exceptionally light draft.

Step into our store any time you are near and we'll be glad to tell you more about it.

HOW SAFE IS HOME?

23,000 People Killed in Accidents at Home During 1929, Most of Them Due to Falls; Neglect of Minor Repairs Large Contributing Factor.

"We say there is safety in numbers. Home owners might modify this phrase and say there is safety in repairs," states Ralph A. Hayne, of the Agricultural Extension Department, International Harvester Company in a recent safety study.

"There are a number of good reasons why an owner should keep his home in good repair, not the least of which is safety.

"In the accompanying photograph, for instance, no artist has deliberately made a number of errors, but there are plenty of things wrong in this picture. We sometimes say we are safe at home, but many houses have stairways as dangerous as the one shown. First of all, there is a missing step. A sprained ankle, broken ribs, broken neck or smashed face may result from a fall. Second, there is a broken board, with sharp jagged ends sticking up between the steps and wall. Third, there is no hand railing on either side of this stairway. It is only a question of time until someone falls on these steps.

"Last year 23,000 people were killed in accidents at home, and for every one killed at least 200 persons suffered non-fatal injuries. Most of these deaths and injuries were due to falls, many of them caused by neglect of minor repairs, or conditions such as we have shown in the accompanying illustration."

Many home owners have found from experience that it pays to keep their homes in good repair, as a matter of personal pride, and to protect the investment they have made in their homes. Each owner should make an occasional systematic check to see what repairs are needed. Little signs of neglect, breaks, cracks and worn places to which we become accustomed, may cause an accident, or may require expensive replacements if they are allowed to run on indefinitely.

A good place to begin is on porches and stairways. See that all treads are sound, unbroken and securely fastened. Test the hand railings, especially if you have children who play in the yard and on the porches. Look under enclosed porches to see that there is plenty of cross ventilation, to prevent dry rot of supports and siding close to the foundations. See that basement stairs have hand railings and plenty of head room.

Then consider additional repairs that may make your home more comfortable or valuable. Most houses need additional shelving in closets, kitchen, pantry, fruit cellars or store rooms. See that screens and screen doors are sound; whether parts of your house need paint or varnish to protect them from weather or hard usage; look at the roof to see if it needs repairs or replacement.

Perhaps you would like an enclosed porch that can be used winter or summer, new floors over old, basement or attic play rooms, insulation for attic or sidewalls, cement floor for basement, new coverings for outside walls, paneled ceilings, tile walls for bath room or kitchen, built-in cabinets, new walks or driveways, or a new garage.

Your lumber dealer can show you why it pays to "Keep Your Home in Good Repair," and why this is a good time to have repair work done. You will find that lumber and other building materials are cheaper than they have been for years, and you can get experienced, dependable workmen to help you with the more difficult jobs you cannot do alone. Work of this kind may be paid for in easy installments if desired.

Check up and see whether home is safe for your children and other members of your family, see whether it needs repairs or improvements, then talk it over with your lumber dealer. You will find he can help you.

MAN DIES FROM HEAT

ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 5.—A victim of the heat, J. C. Hickman, 67, living near Cumberland, is dead today. He was returning home from a business trip late Monday when he was overcome at a filling station five miles from here. He died in a few minutes.

LIFE SPAN ON INCREASE

82 Years Will Be Average In 2000 A. D.

In the year 2000 the average person will live to be 82 years old. The life span has been steadily increasing. Where, in the year 1855 the span of life, taking the population as a whole, was only 39.7, it has increased to 58 years in 1928.

These figures were compiled by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University and given before an address of the American Public Health Association.

Professor Fisher estimated the increase every ten years and asserted that in 1930 the average duration of a person's life will be 61 years. In 1940 it will be 65 years, and will increase steadily to 82 years in 2000.

The opinion has been offered that this increase in human life is due chiefly to the progress made by medical science during the last decade, in treating disease and discovering the cause of food spoilage, together with improved living conditions.

"Food, well preserved, has always played a major part in the life and health of the individual. From the earliest times an attempt was made to keep food in cold places, as a means of preserving it. Caves and springs were used with the result that the food was often tainted because of improper preservation. Epidemics and plagues have been known to result from unwholesome food eaten with the aid of spices, which were added to disguise its unfitness for consumption.

"When medical science discovered bacteria, and found that cold, dryness and sanitation are unfavorable to their growth, definite steps were taken to preserve food, thereby preserving health.

The latest development in preserving food is electric refrigeration. The temperature is automatically kept low and dry, thus enabling food to be kept at a scientifically correct temperature, which retards bacteria growth.

This newest means of preserving food is a necessity. The public knows that food cannot be preserved properly unless it is kept in a cold, dry temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

"It will only be a short time," he says, "before everyone will want to eat right food kept at the right temperature, and this will aid materially in increasing the span of life to even longer than 82 years."

MAY CROSS OCEAN IN RUBBER BALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Karl Herzog and Fritz Vogel, both of Brooklyn today were looking for a company to furnish them a gigantic rubber ball in which they plan to bob across the Atlantic.

The young men said they were quite serious about their project and insisted they planned to drift across the ocean in fifty or sixty days in the ball. They said the winds would blow them across in that time.

"There's nothing complicated about it," said Vogel, "except we haven't got the ball as yet. We would have a hole in the top of the ball, lower in water and food, get inside and just wait for the wind to blow us over to Europe."

No matter what its surface may be, whether stained or painted, the little shingle house has charm. The house shown here, designed by R. L. Stevenson, of Boston, is of a modified colonial type. Its cubical contents are 22,100 feet, which, at 50 cents a cubic foot, would cost $11,050 to build. The first floor has an entrance hall in which are a vestibule with attached lavatory, and a stair hall with closet in rear; living room, dining room and kitchen. Upstairs there are three bedrooms and bath with good closet space. The plans of this house may be purchased from the architect. ## FAIRGROUNDS SHOOTING STILL MYSTERY; SUSPECT IS JAILED

As a sequel to the mysterious shooting of Joseph Gordon, Cedarville auctioneer, at the Xenia fairgrounds early Monday afternoon, John Wickersham, 56, was fined $25 and costs on an intoxication charge by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith and remanded to the County Jail in lieu of payment Tuesday morning. Wickersham is not believed to have been responsible for the shooting, however.

Gordon was walking past the dining hall when he was struck in the left temple and on the left arm by stray buckshot from a shotgun. He was taken by McClelland Hospital by J. Robert Bryson, fair board secretary, and an examination revealed one buckshot had pierced the skin of the left temple while another scratched his left arm. It was not considered necessary to remove the buckshot and the auctioneer later returned to the fairgrounds.

Police Chief O. H. Cornwell, notified of the mysterious shooting, went to the fairgrounds to investigate and discovered the drunken man in a shanty about 100 feet away from the dining hall. The shotgun from which the load of buckshot was thought to have been discharged was found in the shanty.

After sobering up at police headquarters, Wickersham told police the shotgun was a borrowed one but that he had not fired the mysterious shot. The man had been making his home in the small building on the grounds. Police discovered half a dozen bottles containing in all a half pint of corn whiskey and first charged Wickersham with possessing liquor. This charge was dismissed by Judge

Smith for lack of evidence that the whiskey belonging to Wickersham. It is believed a group of men may have used the shanty for a liquor party and that some unidentified person discharged the shotgun.

Many leading silent motion picture players who were stricken from high pinnacles by the coming of the microphone, are regaining their fame and fortunes through the foreign versions of American films.

Antonio Moreno, long a silent star, is enjoying a new success as a leading man in pictures destined for Spanish releases. His rejuvenated career has grown beyond the point of occasional signposts and because of his work in the Spanish version of "The Bad Man" and other films, he has just been signed to a long term contract by First National.

"Tony's" good fortune uncovers the fact that a number of other well known players are working steadily in these by-products of our American talkies. Barry Norton, who is an Argentinian and whose real name is Alfredo Biraben, has

Discussing "The Marriage Circle," one of the first of the sophisticated divorce comedies, Ernst Lubitsch remarks that nearly everyone connected with the picture was divorced either during or since the filming of the story. Both Monte Blue and Marie Prevost slipped out of the marital harness while the picture was under way.

Not long afterwards Adolphe Menjou and his first wife came to a parting of the ways. The cameraman on the film followed suit and later came the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Hale. Now Lubitsch himself is divorced and he remarks that everyone is divorced except Paul Bern, who wrote the script. He wasn't married.

STEAMERS COLLIDE AND MANY FEARED DROWNED

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Loss of life was feared today in a collision between the American steamer Chichasaw, a United States shipping board freighter, and the Swedish steamer Fernern north of the Skaw off Denmark today, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

The Fernern, a vessel of 592 tons, is believed to have sunk following the crash. The exact extent of casualties is not known.

The Chichasaw, 4948 tons, is operated by the firm of Moore and McCormack.

DRY DIRECTOR WILL HAVE AMPLE FUNDS; TO ADD NEW AGENTS

Extra Appropriations
For Department Are Expected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—With reasonable limitations Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, the new dry director, will have what funds he needs to enforce the prohibition laws even though the treasury in the next twenty-four months is faced by the leanest years since the war.

This opinion was expressed today by officials who said they believed President Hoover and the bureau of the budget would approve additional appropriations for the prohibition service. Woodcock already has indicated he will need about 500 new agents, while Dr. J. M. Moran, director of the bureau of industrial alcohol, wants a hundred or more additional inspectors.

In discussing enforcement conditions in a radio broadcast last Wednesday, Woodcock declared that "without sensation, without beating of drums, he will exert a steady, unrelenting pressure against the out-law liquor traffic until it is driven from the land, or our last drop of energy is expended."

The budget bureau is now considering the appropriations which will be contained in the 1932 budget which will be submitted to congress by President Hoover in December. All department heads have been urged to exercise the utmost economy in the preparation of their estimates and every effort is being made to cut appropriations to avoid the necessity of an increase in taxes over the rates of the 1925 revenue act.

If there is to be an increase in the prohibition force before June 30, 1931, the last day of the current fiscal year, a deficiency appropriation bill is necessary at the next congress, since the funds to be provided in the budget now under preparation will not be available until July 1, next.

Woodcock appeared to be convinced that with the present force of about 2,000 agents satisfactory enforcement cannot be accomplished, although about 65,000 persons were arrested with this staff during the year ending June 30. Officials emphasized, however, that Woodcock was not concerned so much with making a large number of arrests as reducing the volume of liquor consumed.

Nor can there be complete success in enforcement unless the states co-operate, according to Woodcock. He declared that the federal courts would be opened by state officials to abate nuisances through injunctions.

WEST VIRGINIA IS HOLDING PRIMARY

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—The West Virginia primary election is being held today. Prospects are for an extremely light vote, due to the intense heat.

Accusing Governor William G. Conley of "coercing" voters, Thomas W. Fleming, of Fairmont, member of the Republican state executive committee issued a statement charging that state employers are going through the state with "Jones money," attempting to "influence voters and election officials."

Fleming's statement was in response to the announcement by Governor Conley of his intention to vote for Colonel James Ellwood Jones, coal operator, of Switchback, for the G. O. P. nomination for United States senator. The governor expressed the hope that his friends "will do likewise."

Informed of Fleming's statement, Governor Conley denied that he was coercing anyone.

CHARGES OF MURDER AGAINST ADMITTED SLAYERS PLANNED

Evans And Yakus Will
Face Action In Death
Of Girl

MEDINA, O., Aug. 5.—Charges of murder in the first degree probably will be placed against William Evans, 26, and Samuel Yakus, 23, both of Barborton, who are being held in connection with the brutal murder of Miss Agrippina (Dolly) Kozlowski, 19, last Thursday night, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wendell R. Lerch said today.

Both men, according to police, have confessed to being implicated in the murder of the girl whose bullet-riddled body was found last Friday in an oat field four miles west of Wadsworth.

Evans has admitted that he was the actual slayer of the girl, police declare. Yakus is said to have admitted that he drove the car which carried Miss Kozlowski and Evans to the field where the girl was shot to death.

Evans was brought here yesterday to await charges to be brought by Assistant Prosecutor Lerch. Yakus and two other suspects in the murder are expected to be brought to Medina today or tomorrow. The two other suspects may face charges in connection with their part in placing Miss Kozlowski in a house at Mansfield, O., police said.

According to the alleged confession of Evans, he shot the girl rather than permit her to return to the house in Mansfield, Evans, who had been keeping company with the girl for about four years, said he brought Miss Kozlowski from Mansfield to Barborton last Wednesday.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Acute alcoholic poisoning was blamed today for the death of Phil Shamblin, 39, of Miller, Ohio. ## CANNON DEMOCRATS BARRED IN PRIMARY VOTE IN VIRGINIA

Hoover Policies Are Being
Tested In Four
States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Virginia Democrats who voted for William Moseley Brown for governor last November are ineligible to vote in today's primary, according to a decision of State Attorney General John R. Saunders.

Brown was the candidate of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the M. E. Church South, against Gov. Pollard, the winner.

As a consequence of Saunders' decision, regular Democrats prepared to challenge the Cannon-Brown following at the polls.

The Hoover administration's plan of farm relief and prohibition were put to the test today in four states—Virginia, West Virginia, Kansas and Missouri.

The eyes of political America turned to the West, where Kansas voters will decide important issues after the most turbulent primary campaign in years.

The administration's $500,000,000 farm relief plan as administered by Chairman Alexander H. Legge, and others of the federal farm board has furnished most of the ammunition for Governor Clyde Reed, who is staging a hard fight for renomination against Frank Hauke.

The Kansas Governor has bitterly assailed the farm board's plea for a reduction in crop acreage. Although Governor Reed has in the past been a firm supporter of the Hoover administration—even appointing a senator on the ground that he would uphold the president—he has gone so far in his attacks on the farm board that he is regarded by many politicians as a rebel in the Republican camp.

Both Kansas senators—Capper and Allen—also are up for renomination. The former has no opposition, and Sen. Allen is fortunate in having three candidates against him. They are Rep. Sprout (R) of Kansas, known as one of the driest of the dries, W. G. Snyder, a "farmer's candidate," and James F. Getty. Allen is expected to win.

Sen. Carter Glass (D) of Virginia has no primary opposition, the threat of anti-Smith Democrats to make life miserable for him, having failed.

Virginia, however, is furnishing a prohibition test that is being eagerly watched. It is in Washington's "back door" in the district just across the Potomac where George Washington lived.

Rep. R. Walton Moore having decided to quit congress, there is a general scramble for the Democratic nomination in this, the eighth district. There are five candidates, two dry and three wet. State Senator Frank Ball of Arlington County and Judge Howard W. Smith of Alexandria are the drys, while Thomas R. Keith of Fairfax, Crandal Mackey of Arlington and E. H. DeJarnette of Orange County bear the moist label. Keith, a candidate of acknowledged high caliber, is given an outside chance, with Ball favored to win.

Mrs. Sarah Lee Egan, a Virginia beauty who turned from social life to politics, is fighting ex-Rep. Deal for the Democratic nomination. Deal was unseated in the Hoover landslide, partly because he was a wet. His defeat was acclaimed an Anti-Saloon League victory.

Ex-Senator Neely will be nominated for the senate by the Democrats in West Virginia, while there is a scramble for the Republican nomination.

Five candidates want the Republican nomination for the seat made vacant by retirement of Sen. Guy D. Coffey, Republican. One of the five candidates, Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, is running as a wet.

The race for the Republican honor appears to be between Col. James E. Jones of Switchback, and Harry Shaw of Fairmont.

Missouri voters are engaging in congressional primaries, having no senatorial candidates to name.

MOSLEMS AND HINDUS SUBDUED BY TROOPS AFTER BLOODY RIOTS

Clashes Occur In Flood-Stricken Area Of India

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Flood-stricken Sukkur in the upper Sind river regions of India was guarded today by the machine guns of two companies from a Punjab regiment sent there posthaste from Hyderabad after a bloody clash between Moslems and Hindus.

Dispatches from Karachi to the London Evening News reported that several persons were seriously injured during the riot, finally quelled by the combined efforts of troops and police.

Two volunteer companies took charge of patrolling the streets not under water to prevent further disorders and looting of houses whose occupants have left to avoid the rising floods. All public buildings are fronted by Punjab machine guns.

Other sections of India also reported communal rioting between Hindus and Moslems, with five fatalities at Ballia when 15,000 demonstrators became disorderly.

Total casualties from the communal rioting throughout India estimated at 100.

Meanwhile Abdul Kalam Azad, a Moslem, has been chosen acting president of the All-India congress and active director of the civil disobedience campaign.

ACCUSED WOMAN'S HUSBAND TO LEAVE

ASHTABULA, O., Aug. 5.—A. L. Lowther, husband of Mrs. Maude Lowther who is under indictment for the murder of Mrs. Clara Smith, was to leave here today for his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., for a visit prior to his departure for South America where he will be connected with an oil company.

Lowther announced last week that he would not be in the United States when his wife goes to trial early in October. He has signed a three-year contract and will sail early in September, according to his present plans.

Tilby Smith, husband of the murdered woman and alleged partner of Mrs. Lowther, will be taken to the Ohio Penitentiary this week to await execution October 29 for his part in the slaying of his wife.

RUM RUNNERS SLAY COAST GUARDSMAN

IPSWICH, Mass., Aug. 5.—Victim of alleged rum runners' machine gun fire, while trying to rescue two Winthrop men adrift in a small boat, Louis A. Pratt, 35, of Kittery, Me., coast guard boat-swain's mate first class, died today at Cable Hospital.

Pratt, together with Cleo Faulkingham, coast guard surfman, put out from Plum Island coast guard base number 21, in answer to a call to search for two men, whose names were not learned, when the machine gun fire began.

The surf boat was riddled with bullets, as the alleged rum runner opened fire when Coast Guardsman Pratt's uniform was seen through the darkness.

XENIA SWELTERS AS HUMIDITY ADDS TO DISTRESS FROM HEAT

Ohio Suffers From Continued Drought And Heat Spell

Overcast skies early Tuesday afternoon held a promise that belated thundershowers, forecast for Monday night, may materialize late in the day and bring at least momentary relief to perspiring Xenians.

The official weather forecast did not justify this hope, however, as the prediction is for partly cloudy Tuesday night and slightly cooler in the extreme east portion of Ohio, with the possibility of local showers Wednesday.

The overcast skies Tuesday served one purpose even though no rain fell during the morning hours. The city was partly screened from the scorching rays of the sun and the mercury was barely able to touch 90 degrees in contrast to the maximum temperature of 100 degrees registered here Monday afternoon.

St. Louis was just about the hottest place in the country Monday, the populace of that city enduring a high mark of 108 degrees. Rain was falling there, however, early Tuesday, bringing a measure of relief. Washington, D. C., the nation's capital, reported a maximum temperature of 102 Monday and Cincinnati an even 100.

The maximum temperature over Ohio Monday afternoon ranged from 94 to 107 but a slightly cooler area is now overspread over this region and the maximum Tuesday was not expected to be quite so high.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 5.—Further relief from the intense heat wave which has caused death, loss of thousands of dollars in fires and water shortage in this section of the state was anxiously awaited by sweltering residents today.

Temperatures continued high in this vicinity last night after reaching a new record of 97 degrees for August 4th yesterday. A slight decline in the mercury, however, was felt today. At eight o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 76 degrees.

One drowning was reported here last night. Thomas Surri, 10, of Cleveland, met his death in Lake Erie while bathing near the shore. Drought conditions reached a crisis yesterday at Canton, where it was discovered that the 15,000,000-gallon base of the water department was nearly empty. Several wells also were reported dry. An order restraining the use of water for lawns was issued by Mayor Herman R. Witter.

Costly grass and timber fires were reported in various parts of this section of the state. Lack of water made it impossible to halt dozens of the fires.

The highest temperature reported in northern Ohio yesterday was at Youngstown where the mercury soared to 102 degrees.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—After passing through the hottest night this summer, with thermometers registering from 90 to 95 degrees in downtown office buildings, local residents today experienced a continuation of the torrid wave.

The mercury rose to 107 1-2 degrees here Monday, the second hottest day of the year.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR GALION BANK

GALION, O., Aug. 5.—A. E. Evenson today assumed his new duties as receiver for the Citizens' National Bank here. He recently closed up the affairs of the Mt. Sterling, O., bank, of which he had been receiver.

The receivership here is interpreted as indicating that there will be no early reorganization of the local bank.

GERMAN FLYERS COMPELLED TO ABANDON FLIGHT IN ICELAND

REYKJAVIK Iceland, Aug. 5.—Lack of a suitable landing place in Greenland and non-arrival of special gasoline supply for their tiny plane today had cancelled the Berlin-Chicago stop over flight of Wolfgram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German aviators.

Keenly disappointed by failure of their project through unforeseen circumstances, Hirth boxed his plane and sailed for Montreal aboard the liner Minnedosa, intending to fly from Canada to New York. Weller will embark for Germany on the next ship leaving port.

RECEIVER IS ASKED FOR AMERICAN BOND AND MORTGAGE FIRM

Huge Corporation Is
management

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The Boston Evening American in an exclusive copyrighted article today said:

"Charging gross mismanagement and fraud, a group of New England bond owners have petitioned the Supreme Court of Maine to appoint a receiver for the American Bond and Mortgage Company, with central headquarters in Chicago, the Boston Evening American learned today.

"A bill in equity has been filed in Augusta Chief Justice W. R. Pattingall has issued an order of notice, which is returnable in Supreme Court at Augusta on Tuesday, August 12.

"The action came as a bombshell in financial circles all over the country, because of the prominence and activities of the defendant corporation. The American Bond and Mortgage company in the past twenty years is reputed to have done a business aggregating $150,000,000.

"It has financed the building of hotels, theaters and apartment houses all over the country. It built Alden Park Manor, now known as Longwood Towers, in Brookline and many fashionable apartment houses in greater Boston.

"The complaining bond owners charge that the American Bond and Mortgage Company is on the brink of insolvency. They ask the court to give the receiver or receivers power to take over the affairs of the corporation and to restrain the corporation's officials from transferring the money, assets or books. The claim 41 issues have been defaulted.

SLIGHT TREMBLORS RESULT IN PANIC

ROME, Aug. 5.—Melfi and Rionera were reported normal again today following the panic which gripped the populace of the devastated towns yesterday when slight shocks shook the localities.

Vividly conscious of the horrors that only a few weeks ago ravaged south central Italy when a heavy tremor sent hundreds of buildings crashing into the dust, the nervous residents rushed pell mell into the streets at the first indication of new vibrations, refusing for a long time to return to their homes.

Some remained in the open fields throughout the night.

The greatest damage noted were large cracks in the walls of the city hall.

LIBERTY BONDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Opening price quotations for Liberty Bonds today were: 3 1/2's 101.1 and fourth 4 1/4's 102.31.

AMERICAN WOUNDED IN CLASH; TROOPS MARCH ON CHANGSHA

Communist Machine Guns
Pepper Boats In
Siang River

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Nationalist troops, seeking to end the reign of terror instituted by Communists in Hunan province, entered the sacked city of Changsha today, it was reported in dispatches to the evening newspapers.

Entry of the government troops followed a clash between Communist machine gunners and foreign gunboats in the Siang river, in which one American and three British sailors were wounded.

The targets of the Red gunners were the United States gunboat Palos, the British gunboat Teal and the nearby Italian and Japanese gunboats.

The Palos fired several rounds at the hidden Communists. Additional reports stated Communist bandits in the upper Min River districts were holding two British women missionaries, the Misses Edith Nettleton and E. J. Harrison for $50,000 ransom.

Dispatches published by the London newspapers declared the bandits took a horrible means of notifying the British authorities of their intention of obtaining the desired ransom. The British received a grisly threat in the form of one of the captives' fingers, accompanied by a threat to remove the remainder unless the sum was speedily forthcoming.

Authoritative advices reaching here confirmed the kidnapping report. If the ransom is not received, the Communists threaten they will kill either of the captured women.

British authorities at Peking delivered urgent representations to the Chinese to bring about the women's release.

Additional advices confirmed reports that the Chinese rebels are active on all sides and that Changsha has fired upon by a British gunboat.

ARTHUR HAND DENIED FREEDOM ON CHARGE

BUENOS AIRES, O. Aug. 5.—Suspecting that Arthur Hand, of Toledo, aided his brother, Wilbur Hand, now in Ohio Penitentiary to escape from jail at Washington, D. C., last October, county officials here today rejected Arthur's plea that the indictment charging him with complicity in the $175,000 Gallon bank robbery be nolleed. Convicted of participating in this robbery, Wilbur is serving a sentence of from twelve to twenty-five years.

Declaring that he desired to marry his blind sweetheart, Miss Theresa Hartman, of Toledo, Arthur unsuccessfully urged Judge J. W. Wright and Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Sears to quash the indictment against him, or fix an early date for his third trial. Juries twice disagreed on a verdict in Arthur's case. He is at liberty under $5,000 bond.

"I can't get married as long as I have this cloud hanging over me," Arthur declared.

MOVE FOR GUARDIAN HEARD ON TUESDAY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Hearing of an application of Miss Florence Madden, nurse, for appointment as guardian of Lady Mary Heath, noted British aviatrix, was scheduled in probate court here today before Judge George S. Aldams.

The application of Miss Madden, nurse and companion to Lady Heath since her almost fatal accident during the national air races here last August, charges that the British woman is "incompetent by reason of mental disorders."

Gerald J. Pilliod, counsel for Lady Heath was expected to challenge Miss Madden's contention. In an exclusive interview with International News Service recently, Lady Heath declared she would fight the guardianship petition "to the end."

SEVEN CHILDREN SEVERELY INJURED

LORAIN, O., Aug. 5.—Seven children were in St. Joseph's hospital here today with injuries received yesterday when the boom and bucket of a steam shovel fell on them while they were watching the excavation of a building.

One of the children, Henry Weigel, 4, was reported in a critical condition with a fractured skull, a crushed foot and internal injuries. Other victims of the accident which occurred when workmen were attempting to move the Elizabeth Tomasic, 11 Frank Zvosstam shovel from the pit, were: ex. 11; Julia Szender, 10; George Rill, 9; Jennie Tomasic, 8, and Elizabeth Grogie, 7.

GIVES WOMAN CHECK ON DEFUNCT BANK; WARNING IS ISSUED

If a short, heavy-set, well dressed man of dark complexion calls at your home, represents himself as a telephone man, asks for board and room and offers to pay two weeks in advance by check, notify police headquarters without delay.

He is the man, officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. here say, who fleeced a Xenia woman out of $2.50 this week by means of a worthless check. The name of the woman was not divulged.

The check worker, posing as an employee of the telephone company, told the landlady his name was George Wayne, Washington C. H. He rented a room for two weeks, giving her a check for $20 and receiving $2.50 in change. The check was on the Ohio State Bank at Washington C. H., which recently closed.

Upon learning of the incident of the bogus check the local telephone company began an investigation of its own and learned from Washington C. H. authorities that a man answering the same description, going under the name of Ferguson, had victimized two women in that city last week by the same method.

Telephone company officials suggest that Xenia residents communicate with the company in the future before accepting as roomers any strangers who represent themselves as employees of their concern.

SHAW SAYS FATHER WAS DRUNKARD; HE REVEALS SKELETON

LONDON, Aug. 4.—George Bernard Shaw, to whom bitter controversies and literary sensations are as important as his vegetarian diet, has startled London again with an amazing frank expose of his early life and family, in which he branded his father as a drunkard and attempted to explain why he has always been "a sojourner on this planet instead of a native of it."

The autobiographical references, almost without a parallel in literary history, were contained in a preface to a private edition of his works, which is now being published here in thirty volumes.

"If you cannot get rid of a family skeleton," wrote Shaw, "You can still make it dance."

"You will ask why I was not respectfully brought up. Unfortunately or fortunately (it all depends how you look at it), my father had a habit which eventually closed all doors to him, and, consequently, to my mother, who could not very well be invited without him."

"If you asked him to dinner or to a party, he was not always quite sober when he arrived, and he was invariably scandalously drunk when he left. Now a convivial drunkard may be found exhilarating in convivial company. Even a quarrelsome or boastful drunkard may be found entertaining by people who are not particular. But a miserable drunkard—and my father, in theory a teetotaler, was racked with shame and remorse even in his cups—was unbearable."

Shaw then went on to say that his family finally were dropped socially and "after my early childhood I cannot ever remember paying a visit to a relative's house."

The writer explains his "crude-

ness" upon arriving in London from his native Ireland in the following words:

"My father reduced his teetotalism from theory to practice when a mild fit which felled him on our door step one Sunday afternoon convinced him that he must finish drinking or perish."

"His reform came too late to save the social situation."

And I was cut off from the social drill which puts one at one's ease in private society and utterly ignorant of social routine."

"If I had been merely shy provincially, with incorrect table manners and wrong clothes," he continues; "If I had eaten peas with a knife and worn a red tie with an evening suit, people would have taken me in hand and drilled me, but my difficulties were not of that easy, remediable kind."

"All my life I have been a sojourner on this planet rather than a native of it."

Immediately following the publication, tongues buzzed in literary circles concerning just what revelations even so distinguished an artist as George Bernard Shaw should be privileged to make.

Kender was fined $50 and costs on the seining charge and $100 and costs for resisting arrest and abusing an officer in execution of his duties.

The Daytonian is alleged to have assaulted Joseph Steele, Osborn, fish and game protector, when the officer surprised Kender and two companions using a net to catch fish in the shallow waters of the river.

CLINTON COUNTY TO BUILD ROADS TO AID JOBLESS LABORERS

More than 200 Clinton County farmers, driven to desperation by failure of their crops because of the prolonged drought, appealed to commissioners of the county Monday for employment to enable them to purchase food for their families.

The board listened for some time to their arguments and then promptly decided that $100,000 worth of road construction work, contemplated for later in the year, will be started immediately and the jobless farmers put to work, earning money.

Most of the men composing the delegation which visited the courthouse were tenant farmers and farm laborers who depend to a great extent upon truck gardens which have been completely burned up by the long period of dry weather. Many of the farmers pointed out their truck gardens had not yielded any food whatsoever this season. Many instances of large families of children who had been existing for weeks on meager food were brought to the attention of commissioners. Lack of pasture, cows had ceased to furnish milk for the families also.

Conditions in Clinton County are said to be the worst in the entire state in view of the fact there has been only scant rainfall since early spring. The corn crop was virtually a failure throughout the county.

Farmers nearing destitute circumstances will be put to work at once hauling gravel and limestone to the roads where it will be dumped until the road beds can be placed in a condition to receive it. The decision of the commissioners to furnish the farmers with employment was greeted with a tremendous ovation and every member of the delegation was promised work before the end of this week.

Notes and letters found on a chiffonier directed that in case of death the body be sent to W. A. McCoy, Middletown, O., undertaker. An envelope contained $395. The money and notes were turned over to police.

Upon regaining consciousness, the guest admitted his name was Blinn, although he registered at the hotel under the name of Bond. He said he had come to Lexington for a rest.

THIEVES FLEE FROM TRAP LAID FOR THEM

Twice during the last few weeks thieves had ransacked the home of Lewis Shupp, who lives alone on the Union Road, so Shupp concluded he would set a trap for the intruders. Locking the front door but leaving the rear door invitingly unlocked, Shupp left home at noon but did not go far away. He remained hidden in a convenient place where his view of the house was not obstructed.

After waiting for four and a half hours his patience was finally rewarded at 4:30 p. m. when he saw two youths sneaking in the back door. Shupp hastened home but the boys fled as he approached and escaped. He thinks the youths were from the nearby O. S. and S. O. Home so he reported his suspicions to Home authorities and to the sheriff's office for investigation.

MIDDLETOWN SHOE MERCHANT IS FOUND ILL IN LEXINGTON

A. J. Blinn, 62, prominent Middletown merchant, who operates a branch shoe store in Xenia, was confined in a hospital at Lexington, Ky., Monday night, suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage. His condition was pronounced as serious but he may recover, hospital attaches said.

Blinn, unconscious, was found on the floor of his room at a hotel by an employee, who became alarmed by his two-day absence and went to his room.

Notes and letters found on a chiffonier directed that in case of death the body be sent to W. A. McCoy, Middletown, O., undertaker. An envelope contained $395. The money and notes were turned over to police.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD IS JUDGE—Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.—Matthew 7:12.

FIGHTING BILLBOARDS

In England the name "hoardings" is applied to what we call "billboards" over here. While our term may be descriptively more accurate there is in "hoardings" a subtle implication that far too much of the natural beauty of the countryside is hoarded or stored behind unsightly advertisements which spread thousands of board footage abroad in the land.

Judging from reports of the billboard and roadside committee of the Garden Club of America, presented at the recent national meeting in Seattle, members of this organization working with similar national groups are seeking to remedy the hoarding evil by promotion of legislation which will prohibit or curtail roadside advertising. In New Jersey billboards are now taxed and regulated by law. Elsewhere garden clubs are warring against the billboard interests to sustain state constitutional amendments making such procedure possible. In the south many commercial establishments have agreed to give up billboard advertising. Where billboards have already been removed, trees are now being planted. In fact the garden club workers encourage roadside planting and state co-operation to this end. They are also seeking to persuade owners to put up attractive filling stations and food stands.

Summer is the principal season when public highways are crowded with tourists. States and cities through which they pass will be judged by the attractiveness of the vistas presented from car windows. There is, accordingly, good business sense involved in a community decision to put its best foot forward. For the region which makes lavish display of its charms of hillside, valley and stream will be more widely and more advantageously advertised than the district which seeks to lure dollars by making its avenues of approach mere lanes between the billboard advertisements of individual merchants or nationally-known products.

For years the travel bureaus have urged us to "See America First." But in spots it has been impossible to see America at all, for the miles of painted proclamations and admonitions which obscure the landscape.

BUYING POWER

Many cities and towns have shown a phenomenal growth under the new census, because of resources that have been developed. They were advantageously located for commercial centers, they had a specially favorable climate, or there were other advantages that could be utilized.

Meanwhile every community has a certain resource in itself, the power of which for development is not always realized. That resource is the buying power of its people. If they buy their merchandise to any considerable extent through concerns located elsewhere, their buying power is a wasted resource so far as their home town is concerned. A state will not develop unless it conserves its natural resources of soil, forests, mines, etc., and a town will not develop unless it conserves its resources of buying power by spending its money at home.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

RESPECT FOR "THE FOLKS"

Youngsters today, like youngsters 40 years ago, do not always have a lot of faith in opinions and ideas of their parents. They think "the old man" is out of date. We can hardly blame young people for thinking that. Too often the old folks are out of date. They have not kept up with the changing times sufficiently to know what their children are thinking about. And it's more important to know what their children are thinking about than to know what they are doing. But the fact remains that the world is short on kindness and short on respect for dad and mother. No matter if the boy and girl do think "the folks" are back numbers the finest thing they can do is to show respect. Barbarians, savages, are different from civilized people in their different attitude toward their parents. Without respect for elders there never has been, and never will be, a real civilization.

MACHINES AND CULTURE

Dr. Hall-Quest, New York educator, is right when he tells teachers real culture can flourish in the machine age—and in the country most advanced in the application of machinery. Machinery is not a curse. It provides more leisure for more people—more leisure in which they can think about art, literature, the value of culture. It isn't the machine age that is ever going to be the matter with America. The trouble is going to lie in our disposition to make a wasteful unimportant, unworthy use of the leisure which the machine age provides.

THANK YOU

The other day some paragraphs which appeared in "The Way of the World" three years ago were reprinted by mistake. The writer received the complimentary shock of his life when somebody actually remembered the old stuff and called his attention to the re-print.

FOR WHAT?

In a church conference recently a speaker made an address on the subject, "For What Are We Educating?" Well, who said we were educating?

FROM HOME

Sometimes we are shocked when we learn that a young man who is in trouble "came from a good home." Perhaps if it had been a good home the young man wouldn't have come from it so soon.

MISERY

Dreiser, able American novelist, says the only thing that will stir the American people to improvement is misery. He says they are not yet miserable enough. Maybe so. Can Mr. Dreiser be sure there isn't misery enough? The trouble is that it is concentrated in too few places. Some have too much. Some little or none.

GREATNESS

We are so used to measuring everything, from America down to the last best selling novel, in terms of "greatness." What is greatness? Greatness may rest in a slender setting. It may rest in a word spoken at the right moment. Greatness may rest in a thought—and in the earnest, even if failing, effort to turn that thought into reality.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Why did Kamehameha drive his army over the cliff of Pail, near Honolulu?
Kamehameha did not drive his own army over the cliff. When he set out to conquer the island of Oahu, his army defeated that of Kalanikupule, and the defeated army was driven over the precipice of Pail and died on the rocks below. This overwhelming victory established Kamehameha's power, over the Hawaiian islands, in 1791.

Exports

What were the exports of the United States and Germany in 1929?
The United States sent $5,157,583,027 of goods to foreign ports, while Germany exported goods valued at 13,482,200,000 marks (about $3,000,000,000).

African Pygmies

Is it true that there are pygmies in Africa?
Yes. Several tribes of negroes of exceptionally small stature have been found. Among them is one tribe that eats clay.

The Indians' Origin

Is the place of origin of the Indians definitely known?
There are two theories now as to the origin of the North American Indians. The first is that they came across Bering strait from north Asia, and moved south. The second is that they came from the South seas to South America and spread north.

Fire Damp

What is "fire damp"?
Fire damp is the most commonly known coal mine gas. It is an explosive mixture of methane and air. Methane is composed of one volume of carbon united with four volumes of hydrogen. It is odorless, colorless, tasteless and non-explosive in its pure state, but when supplied with air it burns with a blue flame and is explosive.

Panama Canal

Are the lock chambers of the Panama canal large enough to allow any vessel to pass through them?
The lock chambers have a clear width of 110 feet, and a length of 1,000 feet, giving ample clearance space for any vessel now afloat. The North German Lloyd ship Bremen is the longest ship at present, being 938 feet from bow to stern, while the Leviathan, with a width of 100 feet 3 inches, is the widest.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

"SILK HAT GUS"
NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—Individuality has a way of cropping out no matter how deep down in the pile Fate may consign its possessor.

There are thousands of boot-blacks in New York. An average man, entering the ranks of the Reddish Polishers, is content to slide down into the warm, safe depths of mediocrity and there linger to the end of his days.

Some men, however, just can't stay put. There's Silk Hat Gus, for example.

Gus has a three-chair booth at Canal and Lafayette Streets. In a meagre, adjoining annex he maintains equipment for "refusing" "Ladies" and "Gents Hats." One time a bibulous barnstormer stopped by with a silk hat that he wanted reconducted. Gus did his best; but charity demands the briefest sort of discourse on the job.

Gus awaited the return of the barnstormer with trepidation, but he never came back. For months the silk hat reposed on the shelf, and one day Gus took it down, tried it on and found it fit him perfectly.

A customer stopped by to have his calf skins rejuvenated. Gus, with a cigar at an angle of forty-five degrees protruding from a corner of his mouth, and the silk hat on the back of his head, went to work with his usual assiduity.

The customer fared forth from the little bootblack stall and told the story. In a week Gus's trade had doubled. There was something fantastic in the idea of having one's shoes shined by a swarthy gent wearing a silk hat and puffing a Chloride de Lime. Today lectures on the rear piazzas of sight-seeing buses point out "Silk Hat Gus" to the customers as one of the sights of the city.

Success in any line of endeavor is a mixture of energy, discernment and luck. Put yourself in the way of things happening—and they happen.

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONEMORE!

WET ISSUE IN IOWA MAY GIVE FALL ELECTION MORE THRILLS THAN TAME FIGHTS OF PAST

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Iowa elections generally are tame affairs. G. O. P. nomination fights frequently are hot, but the state is too one-sidedly Republican for thrilling inter-party politics often than once in a coon's age.

This may prove to be one of the times, however.

Senator Daniel F. Steack, trying for another term as a Democrat, has introduced an unexpected issue into the campaign—that is to say, unexpected in Iowa, though very much an issue in various other states.

Steack has come out more or less as a wet.

The Iowa Democrats, in convention assembled, recently adopted a platform plank calling for a new definition of intoxicants and a referendum on the eighteenth amendment—an action supplemented by Steack in a speech referring to prohibition enforcement as "a national disgrace."

It sounded like at least a light-wine-and-beer declaration—maybe even stronger than that.

I'm quite aware that plenty of people will say that this coasts Steack's goose—if anyone possibly could have considered that it was not cooed already.

They will add that it introduces no element of excitement whatever into the Iowa situation.

That Iowa is one of the driest states in the union.

That L. J. Dickinson, the Republican nominee for the senate, was due to win in a walk anyway, and now, if it's imaginable, that he'll win by a larger majority than he would otherwise.

I'm not disposed to deny it.

Far be it from me to foresee a Democratic landslide in a state which only two Democrats have carried (one of them carried it twice) since the Republican party was founded.

I also rather think Iowa is a very dry state—though I know of some mighty wet spots in it.

Steack's hope is extremely forlorn, undoubtedly.

But—here's what puts the kick into it.

It is the same forlorn hope of which the other Democrat, who carried the state, availed himself—and it regarded him with two terms as governor.

While Dan Steack has not ignited the Potomac as a senator, he must be an exceptionally capable campaigner, for he set Smith W. Brookhart so hot a pace in 1924 that the latter was pronounced a winner by the narrowest kind of margin.

Indeed it was so narrow that Steack contested it, and after a long fight, the senate re-counted Brookhart out and gave his seat to Dan!—Brookhart not getting in again until two years later.

However, it was not the sort of victory to offer Steack much promise of a re-election, especially against his this year's opponent, Brookhart, as an ultra-radical, had a deal of opposition in the G. O. P.'s own ranks in 1924, whereas Dickinson will have his party solidly behind him next November.

In short, Republicans and Democrats alike have regarded Dan's defeat as a foregone conclusion in the fall election.

Thus he unquestionably was justified in feeling that he had everything (if anything) to gain and nothing possibly to lose by coming out, as he has done, for prohibition modification.

To be sure, he denounces the Hawley-Smoot tariff, too, Republican farm relief and pretty much everything else the G. O. P. has done and left undone in the last decade, but the campaign obviously will be fought (if it amounts to a fight) on the prohibition issue.

Now we must glance back a little into ancient Iowa history.

The Hawkeye legislature enacted prohibition in 1855 and in 1882. The state supreme court pronounced it unconstitutional the first time and voided the second law.

In 1884 the legislature tried again and made it stick.

Yet several cities opposed it. Two of them, I recall, were spoken of as the "states of Dubuque and Davenport" from the openness of their disregard of it.

In Sioux City, where it was brought up, established a regular municipal licensing system—far more effective than the one under recent federal attack in parts of Idaho.

In 1889 Horace Boles (a Good Templar, by the way) ran for governor on a wet Democratic ticket; won; was re-elected in 1891, but in 1893 was beaten; the Iowa G. O. P. meantime having agreed to dry law modification.

The following year, accordingly, the legislature in effect suspended prohibition in communities which demanded its suspension. Saloons reopened.

In 1916 the muet or Martin law (the prohibition suspension act) was repealed and the old 1884 statute became again effective, but when the legislature undertook to make the state constitutionally dry, the amendment was beaten (narrowly) on a popular referendum.

It probably is not unfair to say that Dan Steack won his senate seat as a Democrat on a fluke, in 1924, but there was no fluke about Horace Boles' election as a wet Democratic governor in 1889 and 1891.

Now that Steack seeks re-election, and no fluke promises, evidently he deems the Boles method at least worth a trial.

In its way, it will be an interesting experiment.

See Clinic, Specialist For Goiter

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

MRS. C.: I judge from your description that your goiter is not a simple one (one without symptoms, with the exception of the enlargement of the thyroid gland), but it is an exophthalmic type, for these are accompanied by extreme nervousness and thinness, palpitation of the heart, as well as other symptoms similar to those you complain of. The protrusion of the eyeballs—as indicated by the name, exophthalmos—is usually a late symptom.

This exophthalmic type causes such a speeding up of the burning of food in the body that it is very difficult to gain weight. It is for this reason that the diet has to be increased markedly.

The exact cause of the exophthalmic goiter is not known, except that it is some toxic condition which has profoundly upset the gland. They have been known to arise from extreme nervous shock (perhaps because these have caused a pouring out of the secretions of all of the ductless glands, so much so that poisonous effects are felt); even prolonged mental strain, in susceptible persons; heredity, (the tendency to unstable nervous systems). Reducing tablets containing thyroid and iodine, certain infectious diseases, prolonged absorption from local infections, such as carious teeth, running ears, diseased tonsils, etc., prolonged unbalanced diet, are other causes listed.

The diet may have to be increased to 5000 or 6000 C. a day, because of the great need for food. Have you counted your calories?

If you notice you live in a small town, I think it is very necessary for you to go to your nearest big city where you may find a doctor who specializes in this disease; or go to some clinic there. As you observed the column rules, the article on Thyroid Disturbances was sent you; this explains a little more in detail.

Mrs. H.: You should go to a very competent skin specialist for advice about the blood wart you have between your eyes. He will probably use radium or X-ray or advise an operation for you.

Mrs. S.: You are only 24, so any loose skin that forms as a result of reducing will tighten up again. Don't lose too rapidly. Keep up your exercises. Use a lot of cold water and ice on your face. Stop worrying.

Probably you will find, after you get that 125 pounds or so excess off of you, that you're not sterile at all. For it is well known that excess weight, with the unbalanced diet that brings it on, can cause sterility.

Have you our Petersizing pamphlet? If not, send for it and ask also for our article on the Tummy Ten exercises. (See column rules.)

Mrs. M.: We have a pamphlet on Kidney and Bladder Disorders and an article on Stones which gives you the information you ask for. We have also an article on Blood Pressure—which answers your other question. See column rules.

Editor's Note: Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a "ully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet, 10 cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, The Urinary System, Adrenals, Dr. Peters Bureau, in care of this post. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Demand Your Partnership Rights

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The question of finances as between man and wife is still pretty much muddled. Wives are still often kept in ignorance of the state of the family finances, and husbands who marry a woman with means often borrow from said wives without thinking it needful to keep track of what they take and pay it back or make provision for it in other ways.

Marriage should be a partnership. That sounds trite, because it has been said so often. But it is true nevertheless. Some wives, it is true, squander the family substance and make very undesirable partners, so do some male business partners. Others would make admirable partners with business sense as good as any man's, but their husbands still have the old superiority complex, and keep them in ignorance of financial affairs unless something goes very wrong, when they wall enough about it.

K. B.: Tell your friend to consult a lawyer. Laws differ in different states. She, of course, would have a dower right in his estate, and if she has notes for the money she lent him it probably would have to be paid out of the estate at the time of his death.

In the event of a divorce, of course she could demand an accounting and restitution of her property. She should, of course, have safeguarded her money and home when she permitted her husband to borrow from her. Sorry I can't be of more assistance. Women are so easy when it comes to giving up everything they possess to those they love.

Just A Reader says "George, Jr." has found the right girl yet and that there are still "a few old-fashioned girls left."

I don't think it would be wise to marry a man you don't love merely to have a home where you can keep house, although I can imagine you would feel much happier in a home of your own after once having had it. Having made one unhappy marriage, be very sure that you will be happy in a second before you go into it. It would be very bad for the baby, as well as yourself, to keep changing homes.

There is no reason why you shouldn't go to dances and have a good time if the baby is well looked after while you go out. Get as much fun as you can, in a nice way, of course, and then when you do marry again, you will probably be more contented.

Just A Reader says "George, Jr." has found the right girl yet and that there are still "a few old-fashioned girls left."

Wear Dainty Hues For Summer

By GLADYS GLAD

Those of my readers who intend to adopt for wear the dead-black gowns designed by the Parisian stylists may find a little advice upon the subject to be of benefit. For black frocks can make you appear very shabbily dressed, or—on the other hand—very smartly gowned.

A great deal depends upon the kind of material you choose. A black crepe de chine, for instance, when fresh and beautifully pressed, can be smart. The moment that it has lost its freshness, it becomes shabby. An old crepe de chine dress should be consigned to the rag bag.

Black satin can be extremely smart. If it is cheap satin, even its newness will not excuse it, will not cover its cheapness, and will make you appear shabby. The lines of the black satin must be perfect, its pressing beautiful. Black tulle and black crepe de chine turn a rusty color from the slightest bit of perspiration. When this occurs, their beauty is gone.

The one best bet for the woman or girl who hopes to follow the prevailing craze for black gowns—with no color relief—is black georgette or chiffon. These materials are always dainty and extravagant looking. Moreover, you can use a cheaper grade of these materials and still appear expensively and smartly gowned.

However, your black accessories must also be smart. The hat must be immaculate, the bag of excellent grade, and, if a black fur scarf is worn, it must not be a cheap one.

So, for beauty's sake, if you intend to wear black, be prepared to pay for the long run more than you would for gowns and accessories of other colors.

For the majority of us, the most advisable plan is to stick to the dainty, usual summer colors, and to allow those who can afford to wear black be the ones to do so. I hope that the blondes who can afford the black costumes will realize, however, the wonderful opportunity that this current fad offers them to appear at their loveliest.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Blackheads
Etta and Jeannette: Do not squeeze blackheads, as you will bruise the skin and misshape the pores. The egg pack will help to remove blackheads. Try applying the cream or liquid sun-tan to your legs. A bit of perfume sprayed lightly on the hair is not in poor taste.

Reducing
Tess, Peg, Jackie, Brown-Eyes and D. F. L.: Of course you can reduce your hips and bust! My course of reducing will prove it to you! It is fully outlined in my booklet on "The New Figure."

Dark Arm-Pits
Win, N. C. M. T. and N. L.: The skin under the arms is too sensitive for the application of bleaches. Wear frocks that do not reveal the armpits.

Veins
Blue-Eyes: The red veins on and around your nose can be removed by plastic surgery. They can be made less prominent if high-seasoned foods and alcoholic drinks are eliminated from the daily diet.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Attention of Southwestern Ohio Shortship Fair Circuit fans will be focused on the meeting at the Greene County Fair this week. There will be three days of the harness sport, starting Wednesday and continuing through Friday with four races each day. All the classes and stake events are well filled and the nominations total 222 for the twelve events. Because of the crowded program the races will probably be called at 1 p. m. and start each day at 1:30 o'clock.

The program on opening day Wednesday begins with the 2:18 pacing stake for a $600 purse for which twenty-two pacers have been nominated. Next on the card is the 2:22 trot worth $300 with twenty-nine entries, followed by a three-year-old pacing stake valued at $600 with a cup donated by the C. A. Weaver Co. This event has twenty-two entries. The final race will be a two-year-old trot, two in three heats, worth $150 with a cup donated by L. A. Wagner, Jeweler. Thirteen entries were received for this event for colts.

L. G. Reitz, Eaton, will act as starting judge for the races this year, succeeding A. E. Staup, Tippecanoe City, who has sent them away for the last three years here.

Those terrible St. Louis Cardinals certainly find the Reds snatching this season. Cincinnati, in turn, finds it just as easy to beat the Chicago Cubs and the Cubs experience little difficulty looking St. Louis. Baseball is a funny thing.

The big disappointment of the season to Dan Howley has been the failure of lanky Bob Meusel to hit as well as Dan expected him to. Meusel has an unhappy faculty of striking out or hitting into double plays in the pinches and the Red fans constantly show their dislike of him by giving him the well-known gasberries every chance they get. Even the other day when he made four hits in his first six times at bat the bugs "rode" Bob when he fanned at an inopportune time in the tenth inning against St. Louis.

Harry Hellmann is just as popular as ever but the idol of Redland Field is none other than Curt Walker, who plays consistently good ball day in and day out. Curt always gives the ball a ride and he made several startling catches in the double-header Sunday.

Harlan "Biff" Wyson, a product of near Wilmington, is the latest addition to the Red pitching staff. "Lefty" has been the mainstay of the Columbus Senators all season and he was obtained by Cincinnati in exchange for Archie Campbell, who was the American Association's leading pitcher in 1929 while with St. Paul. Wyson once attended Wilmington College. He will probably make his debut in the series with the Phillies.

Coaches and athletic officials at Ohio University have voiced their approval of the addition of DePauw and Wabash to the Buckeye Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. The two Indiana schools were recently admitted to the conference under a two-year scheduling agreement, subject to permanent entrance.

"A fine spirit of rivalry and keenest kind of competition should develop among all Buckeye schools and DePauw and Wabash," says Football Coach Don C. Peden. "Two years may not prove sufficient time to test the advisability of permanent alliance with the two Indiana schools, but I do believe that in five years all associated schools will profit by having both new members permanently affiliated," Peden said.

"Pinky" Wilson, Central High coach, is spending most of the summer vacationing at his home in New Concord, painting houses and things but is looking forward to a big time when he enrolls in the coaching school at Evanston, Ill., the latter part of this month. Some time ago they gave the town hall in New Concord a new coat of paint. The apparatus regulating the overhead traffic light above the main highway running through the town is located in the town hall and after the painting job was finished the city fathers discovered they couldn't get to the switch to turn off the signal light. So it blinked on and off all one night. As far as we know "Pinky" didn't have this painting job.

LANGS BEAT DAYTON YELLOW CABS 22-2

With Pitcher John Hurley striking out twelve batters and allowing only three or four hits, the Lang Chevrolet Co. softball team romped to an easy 22 to 2 victory over the Yellow Cabs of Dayton in an inter-city contest played at Patterson Park in Dayton Monday night. Several Lang players and a number of rooters experienced difficulty finding the diamond where the game was to be played and a few returned to Xenia without witnessing the contest.

The Lang line has booked an attractive exhibition game for Thursday night at Cox Field, meeting St. Paul's Lutheran Church team of Springfield. The Lutheran line recently lost to Robbins and Myers of Springfield by a 3 to 1 margin and in a return game held the same team to a 1 to 1 tie score.

Spying On Sports

by BILL RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

The first effort to cut down the payroll check of those athletes who toil on sun-baked baseball diamonds throughout the hot spell has been made—and defeated.

The Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League, it is reported, offered a plan to the other club owners of the loop whereby the present maximum salary figure of $6,000 a season would be cut to approximately $4,500.

The reason for the stars' move is obvious. The club must depend for its trade on the greater Los Angeles territory which contains another club and one of longer standing, the Angels. The Angels, being the property of William Wrigley, who owns the Chicago Cubs, is able to get and keep in the lineup many good players it would not otherwise be able to obtain.

Since the Stars and the Angels must depend on the same territory for customers, it behooves the Hollywood outfit to produce as good a ball club and, if possible, a better one than the junior Wrigley outfit. This, of course, costs a good deal of money in the way of salaries. By a cut in the maximum salary rate the Stars could afford to match Los Angeles in talent.

The Stars' proposal has been tabled for the present. And for two reasons. One is that pointed out by Charles Graham, San Francisco vice president, who suggests that the proposed salary cut would never work because clubs could get around it by giving players bonuses above their salaries.

The chief reason, however, why the Coast League just can't be bothered by salary cut talk at this time is that the league is preparing for war with the majors if the big leagues insist on their ultimatum in regard to forcing the five independent minors (of which the Coast League is one) to accept the universal draft plan.

Strangely enough, the league has voted unanimously to stand pat on refusing to accede to the majors' demands. At first glance, a unanimous refusal by the Coast League in this matter seems strange because Los Angeles and Portland are the property of big league clubs. At first the two clubs came out for agreeing to the major league ruling, but when they saw that the other six outfits were dead set against surrender, the Angels and the Ducks cast their ballots with the majority.

WILL PAY-OFF TIE

Three miniature golfers who tied for low score and a $5 prize at the formal opening of the Bobby Lou midget links last Sunday will contest for the prize in a play-off arranged for 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night over the eighteen-hole course. Robert Downing, Albert LaMar and Clarence Braden each turned in cards of 44. The prize will be awarded the winner of the elimination contest and the public is invited to watch the affair.

TEAM FORFEITS

Unable to muster together a team, Company L's softball nine forfeited a scheduled American League game to Kiwanis-Rotary at Cox Athletic Field Monday night. The local guard unit's team has not won a game all season and there is a probability it may retire from league competition of its own accord before the regular playing season is over.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The promise of an improvement in important divisions of American industry and trade within a reasonable period was accepted today by a small number of investors as the basis of investment buying of selected industrial stocks. Prices in all sections of the market were firm, with a few of the favorites reaching new peaks since June. The noon volume was only 636,000 shares, but this was nearly twice as large as in the same period yesterday.

The call loan rate was moved up to 2 1/2 per cent in consequence of the withdrawal of funds for the use of the interior banks.

United States Steel sold fractionally above 170 for the first time since mid-June.

Standard Oil of N. J. was another good performer for the bulls, reaching a new peak of 74 1/4, on the projected expansion of the business of the company, to include the sale of automobile tires.

Most Amazing Things Achieved By Wizard Who Conjures With Glass And Fire At Fair.

lines, blowing life into a dying art that yet seems not to have lost its fascination for the midway.

"Gawd, ain't that wunnerful," says the sunburned blonde to her gawking escort.

Myers has just completed weaving a bolt of glass cloth worth $150 a yard. He is 55 years of age.

dusty midway. All of these are the voices of the fair—the ninety-first fair, if you please, and it began singing its note of gayety Tuesday, which was opening day.

But this story is supposed to be about Henry Myers who learned the art of glass-blowing from his brother thirty years ago and now has come to use it as a sideshow attraction for the curious. And what marvelous things Mr. Myers can do with his art. There are tiny and intricately woven novelties composed entirely of glass and there are delicate but useful vases.

And there are the most amazing toys and gimcracks fashioned with infinite patience by the exercise of a decadent art made to live again through the medium of the fair midway.

In his tent Mr. Myers sits before an array of small flames, his glass tubes near at hand. And when the visitor shows interest he heats one of these tubes in a flame, blows it evenly and gently, whirling it to fashion its delicate line and curve and—there, you have a vase.

With glass and fire this wizard of the midway conjures for the entertainment of the young and the education of their elders. With the fine care and patience of his artistry, he achieves the most amazing tricks with glass, all before your very eyes.

Deftly he contrives a bud vase, drawing up the amount of melted glass, melting it into shape, warming the stem to fashion its delicate

WARN ADVERTISERS PUBLICITY SYSTEM IS LAW VIOLATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Acting promptly on complaints from newspaper publishers throughout the country that certain advertisers and advertising concerns are "blackjacking" them into publishing, as news, publicity material sent them under threat of loss of display advertising, the post office department today issued a warning of possible prosecution under postal laws.

Frederick A. Tilton, third assistant postmaster-general, in charge of second-class mail matter, in a statement, declared both the publisher and the advertiser might be prosecuted for conspiracy and on conviction face a penalty of $10,000 fine or imprisonment of not more than two years or both.

The postal laws specifically provide that advertisements published as reading matter in the news or editorial columns, must be plainly marked as "advertising," Tilton said.

DAMAGE SUIT FOR $50,000 IS FILED IN R. H. KINGSBURY DEATH

Richard Jones, 18, Osborn, is named defendant in a suit demanding $50,000 damages filed in Common Pleas Court by Eleanor M. Kingsbury, widow and executrix of the estate of the late Robert H. Kingsbury, 39, widely known Xenia clothing merchant, who was fatally injured in an auto collision at the intersection of the Dayton-Yellow Springs Pike and the Fairfield-Xenia Pike last March 14.

The defendant, it is charged, in the petition, was responsible for the accident because he was driving negligently at a speed in excess of forty-five miles an hour.

Kingsbury was driving a sedan west on the Dayton-Yellow Springs Pike and approached the road junction slowly and in a careful manner, the petition recites. It is claimed, the defendant was driving a coupe south on the Fairfield-Xenia Pike at a high rate of speed and that when he observed the sedan he applied the brakes with such force his machine skidded 168 feet, knocking the Kingsbury car thirty-five feet into a field and wrecking it. Kingsbury was pinned beneath the overturned car and died later in the hospital.

The petition sets forth that surviving members of his family, including his widow, Eleanor M., and three children, Katherine, 15, Mary Ann, 12, and Robert, Jr., depended upon him for their support and that they have been damaged to the extent of $50,000 by reason of his wrongful death.

Miller and Finney is the law firm representing the plaintiff.

PAROLE PRISONERS

Physically unfit to be incarcerated, Robert J. Collier, 30, and Clarence F. Stewart, 23, two homeless sailors, admitted to the County Jail last July 29 to serve out fines of $25 and costs each imposed by T. F. Longenecker, Bath Twp. Justice of the peace, have been paroled from the jail by County Commissioners upon their promise to leave the county immediately. The sailors, arrested at Springfield, were convicted of petty larceny charges for the theft of clothing from a railroad employee.

Blue-Smackover

Near the Ouachita River in Southern Arkansas there is a little town called Smackover—a name now world famous because of the Crude Oils this field produces. These Crudes contain a high natural content of the so called aromatics naphthenes and unsaturated petroleum compounds which produces the desired anti-knock quality. This unusual gasoline COMBINES IN ONE MOTOR FUEL every desirable quality required by high compression motors and in addition contains the same quick starting and smooth operating characteristics that have popularized High Test Gasoline. The great power found in Smackover accounts not only for its remarkable anti-knock performance but likewise is responsible for considerably higher mileage yields per gallon.

This wonderful gasoline will be sold in Xenia for the first time Wednesday morning at all the stations of the Carroll-Binder Co. at the Regular Price

Iso-Thermic Tubes

... the automatic self-starting device for fast freezing of ice and desserts ...

Iso-Thermic Tubes for Automatic Fast Freezing

Here is a feature that will appeal to every user of electric refrigeration—a special Kelvinator compartment that gives extra-fast freezing, automatically. Note the spiral coil of Iso-Thermic Tubes, indicated by arrows. This is, in effect, a Cold Plate, in which intense cold is concentrated. Ice cubes and desserts are frozen in half the usual time. Yet food compartments are not affected.

FOR 16 years, Kelvinator engineers have striven to make electric refrigeration more trouble-free, more automatic, more complete in the service it renders to users.

Iso-Thermic Tubes, for example, are found only in the new Kelvinators. Built around a special freezing tray, this new device automatically starts freezing operations when a tray of water or dessert is placed within. Ice cubes and frozen desserts are prepared in record time. There is nothing to watch or regulate. A separate temperature—scientifically correct for proper preservation of foods—is automatically maintained in the food compartments. Thus, food cannot be spoiled through freezing or too high a temperature.

See the new Kelvinator today and learn how easily you may enjoy this modern refrigeration service now through Kelvinator's ReDisCo monthly budget plan.

A High-Speed, One-Man Outfit

McCormick-Deering
One-Row Tank Corn Picker

HAVE you seen the McCormick-Deering Power Corn Picker with the 25-bushel tank? We would like to have you come in and look it over. It does the back-breaking, knuckle-bruising job of picking corn at a rate of 10 to 12 acres a day—very much faster than by hand—and exceptionally clean.

One man on the tractor seat handles both the tractor and the picker. It is operated through the power take-off of the McCormick-Deering Farmall, 10-20, or 15-30 Tractor.

The gatherers raise the down and leaning stalks, chains carry the stalks back and force them against snapping rolls, the ears are quickly snapped, elevated to the husking rolls, and then elevated to the tank.

Trash is eliminated by a process found only on McCormick-Deering Pickers. Flexible paddles attached to a revolving beater located above the upper end of the snapping rolls force the trash down through the snapping rolls and discharge it on the ground.

The tank itself is a great convenience. Its capacity is usually sufficient for a trip down the field and back, and the necessity for hitching and unhitching wagons is eliminated. Steel and iron construction and evenly-distributed weight provide exceptionally light draft.

Step into our store any time you are near and we'll be glad to tell you more about it.

"We say there is safety in numbers. Home owners might modify this phrase and say there is safety in repairs," states Ralph A. Hayne, of the Agricultural Extension Department, International Harvester Company in a recent safety study. "There are a number of good reasons why an owner should keep his home in good repair, not the least of which is safety.

LIFE SPAN ON INCREASE

82 Years Will Be Average In 2000 A. D.

In the year 2000 the average person will live to be 82 years old. The life span has been steadily increasing. Where, in the year 1855 the span of life, taking the population as a whole, was only 39.7, it has increased to 58 years in 1928.

These figures were compiled by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University and given before an address of the American Public Health Association.

Professor Fisher estimated the increase every ten years and asserted that in 1930 the average duration of a person's life will be 61 years. In 1940 it will be 65 years, and will increase steadily to 82 years in 2000.

The opinion has been offered that this increase in human life is due chiefly to the progress made by medical science during the last decade, in treating disease and discovering the cause of food spoilage, together with improved living conditions.

"Food, well preserved, has always played a major part in the life and health of the individual. From the earliest times an attempt was made to keep food in cold places, as a means of preserving it. Caves and springs were used with the result that the food was often tainted because of improper preservation. Epidemics and plagues have been known to result from unwholesome food eaten with the aid of spices, which were added to disguise its unfitness for consumption.

"When medical science discovered bacteria, and found that cold, dryness and sanitation are unfavorable to their growth, definite steps were taken to preserve food, thereby preserving health.

"The latest development in preserving food is electric refrigeration. The temperature is automatically kept low and dry, thus enabling food to be kept at a scientifically correct temperature, which retards bacterial growth. This newest means of preserving food is a necessity. The public knows that food cannot be preserved properly unless it is kept in a cold, dry temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

"It will only be a short time," he says, "before everyone will want to eat right food kept at the right temperature, and this will aid materially in increasing the span of life to even longer than 82 years."

MAY CROSS OCEAN IN RUBBER BALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Karl Herzog and Fritz Vogel, both of Brooklyn today were looking for a company to furnish them a gigantic rubber ball in which they plan to cross the Atlantic.

The young men said they were quite serious about their project and insisted they planned to drift across the ocean in fifty or sixty days in the ball. They said the winds would blow them across in that time.

"There's nothing complicated about it," said Vogel, "except we haven't got the ball as yet. We would have a hole in the top of the ball, lower in water and food, get inside and just wait for the wind to blow us over to Europe."

FAIRGROUNDS SHOOTING STILL MYSTERY; SUSPECT IS JAILED

As a sequel to the mysterious shooting of Joseph Gordon, Cedarville auctioneer, at the Xenia fairgrounds early Monday afternoon, John Wickersham, 56, was fined $25 and costs on an intoxication charge by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith and remanded to the County Jail in lieu of payment Tuesday morning. Wickersham is not believed to have been responsible for the shooting, however.

Gordon was walking past the dining hall when he was struck in the left temple and on the left arm by stray buckshot from a shotgun. He was taken by McClelland Hospital by J. Robert Bryson, fair board secretary, and an examination revealed one buckshot had pierced the skin of the left temple while another scratched his left arm. It was not considered necessary to remove the buckshot and the auctioneer later returned to the fairgrounds.

Police Chief O. H. Cornwell, notified of the mysterious shooting, went to the fairgrounds to investigate and discovered the drunken man in a shanty about 100 feet away from the dining hall. The shotgun from which the load of buckshot was thought to have been discharged was found in the shanty.

After sobering up at police headquarters, Wickersham told police the shotgun was a borrowed one but that he had not fired the mysterious shot. The man had been making his home in the small building on the grounds. Police discovered half a dozen bottles containing in all a half pint of corn whiskey and first charged Wickersham with possessing liquor. This charge was dismissed by Judge

Smith for lack of evidence that the whiskey belonged to Wickersham. It is believed a group of men may have used the shanty for a liquor party and that some unidentified person discharged the shotgun.

FARMERS FORCED TO SELL SHEEP CHEAP

BARNESVILLE, O., Aug. 5.—Operating on a co-operative basis, farmers in this vicinity today had been compelled to sell at a loss three carloads of sheep. The animals were famishing, due to lack of water, when their owners shipped them to Cincinnati packers, selling the sheep at $1 each, or about 1-6 of the regular market price.

Gordon Platt smiled; his whole face changed, Kitty thought. From being stern and hawk like, it softened, became human, almost sweet. She liked the crooked little dip of the firm lips at one end.

SPLASH

By Eleanore Burnett

Copyright, 1930, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Kitty Wilmet, pretty orphan, crack swimmer and stenographer, got a job in New York, determined to live her own life and be "free." She is sure of herself, "always right" in her judgment, honest, obliging. She makes friends; Sally Ayers, head bookkeeper for Ellery Goss, Wall Street king, for whom Kitty is one of several private secretaries; her little sister, Baby; Altea Wainwright, Goss' chief clerk, who loves Kitty; Bert Croydon, theatrical man; Fatty Hemming, stock broker. In the offices are, among many, Hilda Stevenson, blonde phone operator and a mysterious girl, Edith Bartlett, who never smiles, queen of the files.

Gordon Platt, Goss' confidential man, hated by Altea, given none too good a reputation by others, strongly attracts Kitty. She sees him under dramatic circumstances in swimming in the natorium later to be introduced to him, after Bert Croydon has told her not to believe all she hears. In Goss' private office, after her employer has put her under Platt's orders, she is invited to aid in discovering an information leak in the offices. At first she feels insulted at what seems to be an invasion of her privacy, the offer of a bribe, the request that she play spy. Gordon partially wins her over; and while her feeling that he is not a good man persists, so does the attraction she feels for him grow. When he assumes that she will help, she lets the moment slip and does not refuse.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 10
"Still think you a fool!" snapped Mr. Goss. "Know nothing about her except that she's a good stenographer!"

Kitty would not have taken the rudeness from any one else, but she was used to the brusqueness of the almost-dwarf.

"She is to be trusted!" snapped Gordon Platt.

"Take your word for it. Believe it when she proves it. Never saw a woman who could keep her mouth shut!" retorted Mr. Goss.

"Then look at me!" Kitty turned on the dwarf. If she was to do this disagreeable thing, she might as well make the best of it!

"Hand one thing to you—you aren't afraid of me!" growled Mr. Goss. "Great relief. Most of them the outer offices—'think I'm the devil!'"

"I've always heard the devil was a courtly gentleman," smiled Kitty daintily.

Mr. Goss looked at her, and once more she heard that unexpected hearty laugh; Mr. Goss didn't look a man who laughed much.

"Touché!" he cried, almost gaily. "All right, Platt, make her get busy! We can't afford things the way they are. I'd like to fire the whole lot of 'em!"

"That's extremely unjust!" cried Kitty. "You have some devoted employees, Mr. Goss! I don't want this job, but Mr. Platt has assumed that my desire for justice to the company is greater than my dislike for playing detective. But—"

"Oh, shut up! Platt, get her out of here and send me in Bridges; she doesn't talk anyhow!"

That night Gordon Platt called for Kitty at her boarding house, in an expensive luxurious car, which he drove himself, he took her to a quiet restaurant twenty miles up the Boston Post Road. Over a good dinner—much better than Mrs. Higgin's—began what was to Kitty a strange, almost an unholy, alliance.

The leak, it appeared, was destructive of profits. Mr. Goss initiated many large financial operations; such matters as the merger of many factories into one holding company, the consolidation of all the traction facilities of a city, the amalgamation of several mines into one great corporation. When properly accomplished, such an operation resulted in increased profits to the factories, mines and railroads, increased service and decreased prices to the consumer.

It also greatly increased the value of stocks concerned. If prior knowledge of the merger was obtainable, profits which would normally have accrued to Mr. Goss went to whoever knew enough to buy those stocks.

"But I should think finding out where the leak is would be very simple!" exclaimed Kitty. "If you know who buys those stocks and can trace a relationship to any one in the office—"

Gordon Platt smiled; his whole face changed, Kitty thought. From being stern and hawk like, it softened, became human, almost sweet. She liked the crooked little dip of the firm lips at one end.

Her evening with Platt had for Kitty all the charm which the snake has for the bird, as well as the interest which the bird has in the snake. Not that she thought of Gordon Platt as a snake. That he was less than good she was convinced; of course Altea had good reasons for his dislike. But Platt's "less than goodness" was personal, not anything to do with Mr. Goss. She was sure he was loyal there. Platt fascinated her; his conversation was lively and interesting, his outlook broad, his manners perfect.

Kitty had the natural desire of her sex to please. She could not be otherwise than pleasant and entertaining to a companion who treated

"She is to be trusted," snapped Gordon Platt.

"The stock market is a huge institution. Wall Street stocks are bought in every city in the United States. We cannot tell the ordinary stock purchaser from what I may call the instructed one. We do know that word of our merger operations gets out in advance and—some one profits. There is probably no written evidence. Someone in the office says a word to someone else; that word may go through a dozen hands before action results."

"Then what can I do?" asked Kitty.

"Keep your mouth absolutely tight shut. Don't tell your friends Sally Wainwright, Mrs. Bridges—tell no one. That does not mean Mr. Goss suspects them—but a word dropped innocently by them may be heard by the leaker—if you are to help it must be without any one knowing. I don't want the office to know you know me even!"

"But what do I do?"

"Listen!" answered Gordon Platt. "Look. Tell me everything, no matter how unimportant, which might be a lead. By so doing you will save the innocent, help Mr. Goss, and, I hope, catch the thief."

"How do I tell you? You come so seldom to the office—"

"I am out of the city, traveling, arranging most of the time," he answered. "When I am in town, if you will permit, we will eat dinner, go to the theater, perhaps take a swim together—Do you think of anything now which I ought to know?"

The keen eyes bored in. But Kitty had had time to recover her poise. That Altea hated Platt might, and might not have a bearing on the matter. Not that she suspected Wainwright! But if Altea had a reason for hating Platt, some one else might have a similar reason.

"This is all so new and unexpected; I haven't had time to think!" she equivocated.

Her evening with Platt had for Kitty all the charm which the snake has for the bird, as well as the interest which the bird has in the snake. Not that she thought of Gordon Platt as a snake. That he was less than good she was convinced; of course Altea had good reasons for his dislike. But Platt's "less than goodness" was personal, not anything to do with Mr. Goss. She was sure he was loyal there. Platt fascinated her; his conversation was lively and interesting, his outlook broad, his manners perfect.

Kitty had the natural desire of her sex to please. She could not be otherwise than pleasant and entertaining to a companion who treated

"I'm going away for two weeks!" he announced at the end of the ride. "Next time we'll meet where we can swim!"

"But you don't want anyone to know that we—that I—!" She hesitated.

"That we are associated? No! It's essential it's not known, if you are really to give me a lead. But the Columbia is not the only tank! I'll get tickets to the East Side club; none of the office ever goes there. I know. I'll call for you Saturday evening, two weeks, if you will permit."

Kitty dimpled. "I am under instructions to obey your orders, Mr. Platt!" she answered demurely. "Oh, bother my orders!" cried Gordon. "Can't you say you'll come because you'd like to?"

Kitty got out of the car at her boarding house without answering. As she stood with her hand on the door, ready to close it, she spoke. "Some orders are very easy to obey, my friend!" she said gently. "Good night—"

In her room, looking at a frightened, flushed face in the mirror, she gasped aloud.

"Gambler, crook, double-crosser, lover of many women—oh, how did I come to say that—and mean it?" It was a very hot face which Kitty buried in her pillow.

The Theater

Many leading silent motion picture players who were stricken from high pinnacles by the coming of the microphone, are regaining their fame and fortunes through the foreign versions of American films.

Antonio Moreno, long a silent star, is enjoying a new success as a leading man in pictures destined for Spanish releases. His rejuvenated career has grown beyond the point of occasional signments and because of his work in the Spanish version of "The Bad Man" and other films, he has just been signed to a long term contract by First National.

"Tony's" good fortune uncovers the fact that a number of other well known players are working steadily in these by-products of our American talkies. Barry Norton, who is an Argentinian and whose real name is Alfredo Biraben, has been put under a long term contract for Spanish versions by Paramount. George Lewis, who was born in Mexico City, and who was seen in numerous college pictures at Universal, has a similar agreement with Fox.

Gilbert Roland has done a Spanish version of two and Nils Asther, the well-known bridegroom, who married Vivian Duncan the other day, has appeared with Vilma Banay in a German version. Adolphe Menjou, so far, has been disappointed in his expected comeback in the American talkies, but is steadily employed in French versions. Menjou is still haunting the studios or work. This is only a partial list and fame beckons many other x-stars of the silent screen who have command of some foreign language, but whose American audience is afflicted by dialect. On the other hand, Maurice Chevalier's success does not seem to bother success.

Los Angeles, also, will soon have the only theater in the country dedicated to the international talking screen.

Fred Miller, veteran west coast showman, plans to use only foreign versions in his California theater. Here are, of course, several houses here that show Spanish pictures, but none other where French, Italian, German languages may also be heard. A good deal of interest attaches to the experiment.

There is a Spanish population of 180,000 in and around in Los Angeles which, alone, is a substantial field.

Discussing "The Marriage Circle," one of the first of the sophisticated divorce comedies, Ernst Lubitsch remarks that nearly everyone connected with the picture was divorced either during or since the filming of the story. Both Monte Blue and Marie Prevost slipped out of the marital harness while the picture was under way.

Not long afterwards Adolphe Menjou and his first wife came to a parting of the ways. The cameraman on the film followed suit and later came the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Hale. Now Lubitsch himself is divorced and he remarks that everyone is divorced except Paul Bern, who wrote the script. He wasn't married.

Introducing the reason why cardiac conditions are so prevalent in females—Mr. Robert Montgomery. Real name is Henry, Jr. Didn't want to leave blot on family escutcheon when he went on stage so hid under disguise of "Robert." Everyone calls him "Bob."

Is the shining light of Beacon, N. Y. Made world debut May 2, 1905.

WAS BOY POET.

Sold two poems to "Life" during his boarding school days at Paulding (rah! rah) and decided writing would be his "Life" work. Is unanimously alone in the opinion that it still is.

Was told that he could starve to death just as quickly as an actor as a writer. So went on the stage.

Played seven parts in "The Mask in the Face," at $5 per role. Brock Pemberton, the producer, didn't speak to him for months afterward.

Holds the non-stop record for flops in New York. Once during a particularly un-enummerative period, slept behind a piano in a rehearsal room. Scraped up an acquaintance with the maid who cleaned up every morning. She brought him a blanket from her home to help keep him warm. Has been covered with nothing but glory ever since.

Was appearing in a short-lived success, "Possession," when one of Sam Goldwyn's scouts asked to take a screen test of him for the male lead opposite Vilma Banky in "This Is Heaven." Had never been in the least interested in pictures before... but gentlemen prefer blondes.

GETS HIS BREAK.

Proved unsuitable for role (for obvious reasons) and was not engaged. A few days later happened to be dining with Joseph Schenck, who asked him if he had ever taken a test for pictures. "Yes, and

ROBERT MONTGOMERY

It is reposing in your front hall right now," retorted Bob. Which explains why a few hours later found Mrs. Montgomery's little boy, Robert, Hollywood-bound.

Has played in twelve pictures during one year. Enjoyed making "The Divorcee" most. Accepted the unsympathetic role in "The Big House" against all advice because, he promised himself never to become a "type" player. Is still recuperating from the disappointment of not having been able to play his favorite role, that of Billy the Kid. The part was assigned to John Mack Brown. Considers Norma Shearer and Gloria Swanson the finest actresses on the screen today. And Chester Morris and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., its finest actors. Confesses that he received a tremendous kick the first time he met Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. Is still anticipating introduction to Charlie Chaplin.
